Much as we want to keep out of it, this good old pluribus unum nation of ours is in a war, and you better enlist. It's a war against tuberculosis. While it is a nationwide fight, the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association, Limited, brings the battle line right to our own door. And if you think we do not have an enemy to fight you should know that approximately 80 casualties occur every year in Orange county, and 700 more come within the communicable list. It is for the purpose of defeating this enemy of health that the Orange county association is sending out the Christmas seals, and soliciting your support. The seals you buy help strengthen the scientific arm of the professional men and the organization now fighting this insidious disease. Your check or currency to Treasurer A. J. Cruickshank will assist in the continuation of this research.

Neighbor, bus passenger up-town, explained that it was easier, and occasionally cheaper, to leave his car at home. That parking facilities seemed to be continuously on the minus side, and playing hide and seek with the cop was not his idea of a playful sport. It recalled, he said, an experience he had when Col. Heathman was the city judge, and parking spaces and time limit much more generous than they are today. He knew the colonel quite well, and always received the courteous invitation to "come in and see me sometime." One day when he had imposed on the parking time he was the recipient of a ticket, and appeared the following day before the judge, with this introduction: "Well, judge, you have often asked me to come in and see you, so here I am," and then handed the court his ticket. "Two dollars," said the judge. That's the last time my friend called on Col. Heathman.

A copy of the last issue of The Evening Blade under the ownership of Frank P. Clarkson was sent to me by Mrs. Mary Shaw Hoff, 612 B. street, who has treasured the paper. Clarkson bought the Blade from the McPhee's, and edited a militant journal. His opponent at the time was J. P. Bumgartner, to whom the property passed. By chance I happened to be making one of my periodical visits to Santa Ana and J. P. confided in me that he would like to buy the Blade, and would I contact Clarkson. The deal was practically made during the forenoon of Bumgartner's request.

The flu is blowing around again, attacking the strong as well as the weak. Bill Wieland takes the count for 10 days. He says the flu has more tricks than a magician, and is as onerous as a wild marverick. My visitor called under another name, but no more welcome than Bill's guest. After comparing notes neither one of us is satisfied. If ever Nervous Indigestion calls at your door don't let him in. Tell him you are not at home. Lying in this case is a virtue.

Los Angeles has got some things which Santa Ana hasn't got, but Santa Ana has got its Community Chest budget over the top, and Los Angeles is still shy about half a million dollars. They can also have their creeping Elysian mountain. We still get along with Birch park. The only time I ever tried to move was when a bunch of citizens wanted to turn it over to the government for a postoffice site. The checker and croquet players helped defeat that movement. So

U. S. Warns Japanese in Shanghai

NIPPONS MAY TAKE OVER CUSTOMS

Tokyo Snubs Protest
Of England, France

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Secretary Hull announced today that the United States has served a virtual demand on the Japanese government to consult with this country before undertaking any changes in the Chinese maritime customs.

The secretary of state revealed this at his press conference in elaborating upon new representations lodged with the Tokyo foreign office yesterday by American Ambassador Joseph C. Grew.

The new representations, made in a formal note, set forth this government's view that the Chinese customs organization should be preserved.

The note added, Hull asserted, the United States should be consulted about any question concerning a reorganization of the customs.

This step was taken following reports the Japanese military in Shanghai were preparing to take over the customs.

Hull refrained from commenting on a reported statement by a foreign office spokesman in Tokyo that Japan was not obligated to consult other nations in its activities in the conquered Chinese territory.

The American government, Grew said, will be greatly concerned if the Japanese authorities at Shanghai do anything which will interfere with the functioning of the customs service and the distribution of customs revenues.

A major portion of these representations, pledged by the Chinese government for the servicing of foreign obligations.

Great Britain and France are understood to have made similar representations at Tokyo independently.

FOG CAUSES PORT HAVOC

Wrecks Harbor Boats;
Many Autos Crash

Commercial fishermen at Newport Beach today viewed extensive damages suffered from a sudden fog which fell upon the Harbor District Saturday afternoon, claimed to be the thickest in 15 years. One boat was broken up in the surf and many more went aground.

The dense fog hit the coastline without warning at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, trapping scores of commercial boats at sea. Many felt their way into the harbor, where a number of the small craft grounded without apparent damage.

THREE RESCUED

The fishing boat "Chief" owned by G. L. Chapman, 926 West Central, Newport, went aground at Point at 5 p. m. Saturday, it was reported. The crew of three was rescued, but a salvage tug was unable to bring the boat through the surf and it broke to pieces on the rough point coastline.

Aboard the "Chief," 40-foot gasoline powered craft, were Skipper E. V. Jones, Victor Johnson and Jack Morris. Smith Brothers' salvage tug "Motorite" made a rush trip to the stranded vessel early

SEX CRIME ON YACHT, CHARGE

A jury to try Ernest J. Hansen, Newport Beach sailor, on charges of sex crimes against two small Newport Beach girls was being selected in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court today.

Local 'Red Stripe' Plan Finds Favor

Fame of Superior Judge James L. Allen's "red-stripe" plan for punishment of drunken and reckless drivers spread rapidly today. Municipal Judge Leo Freund of Los Angeles and the Hollywood Citizen-News commented favorably on the Orange county jurist's new scheme, designed to point the finger of derision at law violators without depriving their families of support.

Judge Allen two weeks ago put his plan into operation for the first time, when he granted a driver probation with the condition he must paint a four-inch red stripe completely around his car.

The red stripe, Judge Allen explained at the time, allows an offender to earn support for his family, but at the same time causes him to come under strict observation by police officers and other drivers, as well as marking him as a law-breaker.

LOWER COST HOUSING IS FDR'S AIM

Huge Program Would Aid Business, Claims

WASHINGTON. (AP)—President Roosevelt, in a move to aid business, asked congress today to make it easier for families to build new homes.

The President proposed liberalizing the laws through which the government participates in private financing of house and apartment building.

In so doing, Mr. Roosevelt expressed hope the program would lighten "a drag on industry and trade," but "were from his goal could not be ceberg, any governmental action alone.

"It will depend mainly," he said, "on the willingness of industry and labor to cooperate in producing housing at costs that are within the reach of the mass of our people."

INTRODUCE BILL

A bill to carry out part of the President's program was introduced immediately in the senate, while both branches of congress debated farm measures.

That debate began in the house under a threat of organized opposition. Nearly 100 representatives, meeting with Representative Patman (D., Tex.) considered—but postponed action on a resolution asking return of the house crop control bill to the agriculture committee.

Republicans participated with Democrats in the protest meeting.

Farm Legislation, government reorganization—and in the senate an anti-lynching bill—are ahead of the housing legislation on the

MAN SAWS OFF BABE'S HEAD

SANDUSKY, Ohio. (AP)—James Miller, 32, confessed today, Police Chief Roland Bravard said, that he decapitated his 7-month-old son, John, with a hand saw as the child lay in his crib.

Bravard said Miller, employed at a manufacturing plant killed the child while his wife was telephoning for train connections for Kansas City whence they came here three years ago.

"I just wanted to," police quoted Miller as saying when they asked the reason for the attack. "I'd kill anybody."

President Starts On Fishing Trip

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—President Roosevelt embarked on the yacht Potomac today for a week of fishing around the Florida keys.

A warm sun broke through the mist as he was piped over the side of the 165-foot former navy patrol boat, its rails manned by sailors in service whites.

Biscayne bay fishermen said the coastal water was rough, but just about right for sailfishing.

For This They Give Medals In War

Nine insurgent aviators in Spain roared over Lerida, Catalonia. Mark for their bombs was a grade school. This little child, discovered dead by his mother, and 55 playmates went to their graves. Yesterday a similar attack at Colmenar Viejo resulted in 54 deaths. Fifty-three of the dead were women and children.

TRUCE CALLED IN STRIKE

All employees, with the exception of two, at the Empire Market grocery department were again working today following a strike that lasted a half day Saturday. A truce was called by Boyd Buffett, international representative of the Retail Clerks association of the A. F. of L., until a meeting of the union can be called Tuesday evening to discuss the matter.

Two of the 10 men who went on strike Saturday on order of Chief Roland Bravard said, that he decapitated his 7-month-old son, John, with a hand saw as the child lay in his crib.

Bravard said Miller, employed at a manufacturing plant killed the child while his wife was telephoning for train connections for Kansas City whence they came here three years ago.

Women's Elastic— er—Things Too Heavy for Stretch

NEW YORK. (AP)—Don't get this wrong, but—"feminine foundations are too solid," said Elsa Schiaparelli, noted Paris designer of fashions, arriving today on the liner Queen Mary.

The vivacious Elsa doesn't plan to undermine women's foundations, and explained she wasn't speaking of morals. She means those elastic things that—well, those elastic things.

TOTAL WAGE INCREASES

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Social security tax figures indicated today that, recession or no recession, American workers received about $1,100,000,000 more in the last five months than in the first five months of the year.

Social security tax collections the first five months totaled about $252,000,000. In the next five months they aggregated about $274,000,000, a gain of $22,000,000.

Arrest Follows Fatal Gunfight

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Police booked a parking lot attendant on suspicion of murder early today after another attendant was shot to death in a flight down crowded Hollywood boulevard.

Armanio Rodriguez, 28, was killed by one bullet, Detective Lieutenant Joe Filkas said, from a revolver in the hand of Francisco Hernandez, 34, who worked in an adjoining lot near a Hollywood boulevard hotel.

Hernandez, arrested half an hour after the shooting, told the detective he and Rodriguez had quarreled over which was the "better man."

MARKET GAINS SLIGHTLY

NEW YORK. (AP)—A little support for rails brought much-needed help for the stock market in general today, and early declines running to more than 2 points were reduced at the tail-end of the session.

Steels and motors were weak at the start, but did better later. This week's steel mill operations were estimated off 1.4 points at 29.6 per cent of capacity, a new low mark since December, 1934.

A comeback in production was looked for by some in the near future.

The President's housing message to congress apparently failed as a prime market stimulator, largely, it was said, because it had been discounted partly by the week-end rally. This rally also inspired profit selling of stocks in the morning, brokers said.

INDIAN RULING IS REVERSED

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Judge Richard J. Hopkins added another chapter in the tangled affairs of the late Jackson Barnett by ruling Harold McGugin, Coffeyville attorney, and his law partner, Walter S. Keith, must return to the government $137,500 return to which they received from the wealthy Creek Indian in 1922.

Judge Hopkins said today in Kansas City that because of an "inadvertent typographical error" in his opinion it stated Anna Laura Barnett, widow of the Indian, and the two lawyers "unlawfully, wrongfully and fraudulently" participated in the distribution of bonds owned by Jackson.

Artless Thieves Miss Costly Art

NEW YORK. (AP)—A little knowledge of art would have doubled the $25,000 loot snatched by thieves in a dawn raid on the Schaffer Art galleries in Rockefeller center.

Frightened away by a pedestrian, the thieves left behind a single piece—an 8-carat gold sapphire, once owned by Czar Alexander III of Russia and valued at $25,000—which was worth as much as the 150 treasures they carried off.

COUNTY HEADS SEEK AIRING OF CHARGES

Supervisor's Assertions
Called "Groundless"

Grand jury investigation of charges made against them by Supervisor N. E. West was demanded today by five county officials. In a letter to the inquisitorial body they characterize West's assertions against them as "loose, groundless and irresponsible attacks" and insist that the jury inquire into them.

Heading the list of signatures on the letter was that of James Sleeper, county assessor for 27 years, who two weeks ago presented a statement by West that errors in assessments were "appalling."

ROW OVER FEES

The other four, Treasurer Terry E. Stephenson, Coroner and Public Administrator Earl Abbey, Sheriff Logan Jackson and Auditor W. T. Lambert, were attacked last week in a press release issued by West.

Action to remove the sheriff, public administrator and treasurer from office was threatened by the Laguna supervisor if the officials failed to turn in their fees by Dec. 5.

The fight grew out of the new salary ordinance, drawn up by West and Supervisor John Mitchell with the aid of outside legal advice. Dist. Atty. W. F. Menton has ruled that the fee clause of the ordinance is illegal, and the officials are standing on Menton's advice, to which West objects.

West contends Menton is wrong, and has hired other outside attorneys to submit opinions upholding his own stand.

OSTER ASKED

West said last week that he would ask the grand jury to consider ouster proceedings if the officials failed to turn in fees by Dec. 5. He also alleged Auditor Lambert was acting illegally when, under Menton's advice, he made salary increases effective with the

BUS STRIKERS ABDUCT PILOT

CLEVELAND. (AP)—Violence grew today in the Greyhound bus strike with abduction of a driver and shots fired at or near a bus on the highway, while a federal conciliator's joint conference with both sides continued here.

Police questioned the abducted and returned driver and nearly a score of other men at Pittsburgh early today.

Wilbur Glassbrenner, 26, non-striking driver, reported to police that four men picked him up last night as he was about to enter his bus at a north Pittsburgh station. They took him to a house and urged him to sign up to join the strike. He declined and walked out without interference, he said.

Police raided the house and took 20 men into custody. Glassbrenner said he could not identify any of them.

Spare That Xmas Tree!

By BRADEN FINCH

Christmas tree time is here, but those folks who try to chop down a free one in the mountains may find something in their stockings that Santa Claus didn't leave.

That something is likely to be a citation for illegal cutting or possession of Christmas trees on national forest lands, and it probably will come from State Forester Joe Scherman at Orange.

Yule trees can be cut only on special permit.

Safest place to get a Christmas tree this year will still be from the neighborhood dealer.

CONGRESS MAY LIBERALIZE HOUSING LAW AS AID TO BUSINESS

LOWERING OF COSTS AIM OF PRESIDENT

Claims Huge Program Would Aid Business

Congressional leaders said, however, that if the banking committee act speedily the housing program might be squeezed through. The President's idea is to make it possible for low-income families to build a $5000 home with only $500 capital and at lower monthly payments than were possible before. Companies building apartments also would have easier terms.

These suggestions brought favorable comment from Republicans and Democrats alike. Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.), said it was "excellent as far as it goes." Senator Copeland (D., N. Y.), who has criticized much the New Deal has done, declared the proposals had "real virtue."

On the senator floor, the President's letter to Majority Leader Barkley (Ky.), asking that farm bill costs be held within $500,000,000 was read. Immediately afterwards, Senator Bankhead (D., Ala.), commenced an explanation of cotton provisions of the senate bill.

LOWER COST FOR HOME BUILDER

WASHINGTON. (AP) — This is how President Roosevelt's proposed amendment of the National Housing Act would help the man of moderate income build a home.

The necessary down payment for Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance would be cut in half. On a $5000 house the down payment would be $500 instead of $1000 as at present.

Carrying charges on the mortgage would be cut. Payments on a $5000 20-year mortgage would begin, for instance, at $34 a month instead of $37.14 as under the present FHA schedule. In addition, the total monthly payment would be reduced more rapidly because the insurance fee, now a flat $2.08 a month on a $5000 mortgage, would decline as the principal of the mortgage outstanding was reduced.

BUREAU SETS PRICE FOR 'LOW COST' HOMES

WASHINGTON. (AP) — What is low-cost housing?

The National Bureau of Standards, which is seeking the cheapest practical materials for home construction, said today a five-room house is "low cost" when it can be built for less than $5000 without sacrificing efficiency and strength.

The bureau considers the following as absolute top prices for the vital parts of a "low cost" house:

Walls, 60 cents a square foot; partitions, 35 cents a square foot; floors, including the ceiling of floor below, 75 cents a square foot; roof including the ceiling below, 60 cents a square foot; heating plant, $400; lighting, $180; kitchen equipment including plumbing, refrigeration and storage equipment, $320; bathroom equipment, including special wall and floor finishes, plumbing and fixtures, $400.

REPUBLICANS CHEER HOUSING PROPOSAL

WASHINGTON. (AP) — Republicans, as well as Democrats, cheered the objectives of President Roosevelt's housing program, today, but many warned against expecting "miracles."

Chairman Wagner (D., N. Y.) of the senate banking committee, who introduced legislation to carry out the recommendations to liberalize the housing act, said committee hearings would start within a day, or two.

Senators Copeland (D., N. Y.), Clarke (D., Mo.) and Vandenberg (R., Mich.), critics of some new deal measures endorsed the President's proposals.

Republican Leader McNary of Oregon criticized what he said was a lack of suggestions to eliminate "destructive warfare among labor organizations," he said.

"It is an interesting statement but nowhere is there reference to the fundamentals necessary to restore confidence or to guarantee employment by composing the destructive warfare among labor organizations," he said.

Vandenberg said the message was "excellent as far as it goes."

'Debleating' of Goats Predicted

COLUMBIA, Mo. (American Wire) — Goats that can't "bleat" will be common in the future, in the opinion of Dr. A. J. Durant, professor of veterinary science at the University of Missouri. He is planning to publish a paper soon on a "de-bleating" operation he has discovered.

With peace and quiet secured, the animals will be desirable in town, since their milk is useful for health purposes, Durant believes.

Russians En Route To Arctic Posts

MOSCOW, Russia. (American Wire) — Three hundred and fifty-six men today were on their way to posts along Russia's 6000-mile Arctic coastline and islands in the Arctic sea. The men, mostly recent graduates of courses in northern exploration, will replace present Arctic parties for the winter.

FOG PERILS FISHERMEN

yesterday, but the tug was unable to pull the stricken craft into deeper water.

CARGO LOST

Local fishermen also reported that another craft went ashore at Corona Del Mar, a short distance south of the harbor entrance, but the skipper was able to back out into deeper water without severe damage. He lost his load of fish, however.

Many smaller fishing craft, caught unawares by the extremely heavy fog, were forced to anchor and lie offshore until early Sunday morning, it was reported.

Numerous automobile accidents also were reported during the heavy fog.

AUTO ACCIDENTS

Armand L. Heil, 51, Midway City, and an unidentified woman from Elgin, Ill., were slightly injured at First street and Huntington Beach boulevard in Midway City yesterday morning when Heil's car and one driven by J. E. Banta, 35, Elgin, Ill., collided.

Mrs. Ann Hastings Walter, 24, San Diego, was injured when her car struck the rear of a truck parked on First street near Wright street in the fog Saturday night. She told California highway patrolmen the truck had no lights.

Mrs. Blossom Chapman, Yorba Linda, received bruises when Clough C. Chapman, 38, and Robert Estlow, 16, both of Yorba Linda, collided on Yorba Linda boulevard near Jefferson street shortly before midnight Saturday.

HITS LOCOMOTIVE

George D. Brown, 36, La Habra, escaped injury when his car as it was crossing Tustin avenue Saturday evening. He told officers he had not seen or heard the train approaching.

Property damage only resulted when Lee Joseph French, 825 North Ross street, turned into Flower street from Santa Ana boulevard and struck a tree and curb.

Charles Herbert Shaw, 128 North A street, Tustin, was struck by Ramon Castaneda, Garden Grove, as he backed out of a parking place on Fourth street in downtown Santa Ana last night, but neither driver was hurt.

Cars driven by R. A. Ross, 39, Long Beach, and Simon G. Puenzo, 206 North Daisy street, Santa Ana, collided in Buena Park near Orangeflower street late Saturday night in another no-injury accident.

Philanthropist Flooded With Gift Requests

LONDON. (American Wire) — Bill Morris, who has given away $50,000,000 for charitable purposes, is getting tired of giving money away, he indicated today. He has been getting over 200 letters a day the past year asking for money, has to have six secretaries to answer them.

Morris, who is Lord Nuffield, is estimated to have a fortune of about $85,000,000, which he made from the company, Morris Motors, Ltd. He entered business as a bicycle repairer.

"Since I have begun to give money away," he said "my responsibilities and worries have increased by 500 per cent over my business worries. I have been inundated with letters from people who have simply sat down with the idea of helping themselves to a little wealth."

"They have made it impossible for me to get my private letters except after a long delay. From now on I shall not even answer any more such letters. I cannot deal with individuals."

WEST ATTACK PROBE URGED

Nov. 1 pay checks instead of those on Dec. 1.

The letter, signed today by the five officials, follows:

"To the grand jury: 'We believe that loose, groundless and irresponsible attacks upon county officials are prejudicial to the public service. We believe that those who make attacks of that kind should be called to account before the grand jury, and made to produce the evidence, if any, upon which they have made their statements.'

"We refer particularly to attacks made by Supervisor N. E. West upon the county assessor, by Supervisor West directly upon the county auditor, by Supervisor West and the Santa Ana Journal upon the sheriff, the treasurer, and the coroner and public administrator and indirectly upon other county officials."

"If there is any basis in fact for these accusations and charges, you certainly should take action against us. If no basis in fact, the public service has been harmed."

"In relation to these attacks, we urge the grand jury to make an immediate investigation and report. Our books are open, and our acts ready to be submitted to any inquiry you may make. We ask that you give your findings to the court and the public in a special report as soon as possible rather than have it delayed until your final report is made."

RAIL MEN CRY OVER RATES

WASHINGTON. (AP) — J. J. Pelley, president of the association of American railroads, told the interstate commerce commission today "the financial condition of the railroads of the United States is probably worse today than at any time in their history."

Pelley appeared before the commission to support a petition for the roads for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates. Such an increase, plus limited passenger fare increases on eastern lines, would boost annual revenues an estimated $517,000,000.

The railroads, Pelley declared, are "completing their seventh consecutive lean year."

"Ninety-six railroads," he said, "are in the hands of receivers or trustees, 36 of the class 1 railroads operating 70,000 miles. Other systems are threatened with bankruptcy."

PRINCE HURT IN COLLISION

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands. (AP) — Prince Bernhard, husband of Crown Princess Juliana of The Netherlands, was badly gashed in the forehead today when he was thrown against the windshield of his automobile in a collision with a heavily laden sand truck.

The 28-year-old Prince Consort suffered other heavy injuries but state officials said he was believed to be not gravely hurt.

Princess Juliana, who expects to become a mother shortly, learned of the accident at Soestdyk palace and immediately prepared to go to Amsterdam, but her physicians dissuaded her.

Queen Wilhelmina went to the hospital from her place at Loo.

"Baby Parking" Places Ready For V. F. W. Meet

Park your baby, lady? V. F. W. leaders wore a broad grin today as they prepared to put their newest idea—a night nursery to a test.

Auxiliary members now can attend meetings without worrying about Junior, thus helping the attendance as well as stimulating social-consciousness among the offspring.

The idea gets its first test Wednesday night when Ernest L. Kellogg post and auxiliary hold a regular meeting. Plans for traveling to Banning Dec. 5 to take part in a barbecue, parade and post installation will be discussed, Adjutant George Hubbard said today.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

we have our park still, and Los Angeles has one which isn't still.

The Investors Guide has taken my good friend Marnie Cohen away from Santa Ana. The only reason I like it is it has given him a bigger job, more responsibility, and I hope more money. For several years he has been the district manager for this investment company. His headquarters now are in the Associated Realty building, Los Angeles, where his title is still district manager. The only difference is there is so much more of the district, Marnie made many friends during his few years' residence in Santa Ana. It seems like we just got to know a fellow and then his company gives some other fellow a chance to know him. It was ever thus in this changing world.

Citrus growers in the Redlands sector have organized a red-scale district. It is a mass movement against this little bug which inflicts heavy damage on citrus trees. Much of the damage can be overcome where all growers fumigate or spray. But the rancher who does so becomes a menace, just as so many a farmer. A united front will help what threatens to become a disaster. Citrus growing would be a great industry if it wasn't so buggy.

So, Santa Claus, better pinch down on some of your expenditures and lay aside a dime-a-day, and an extra 50 cents on Sunday. That happens sometimes in the best regulated families. And gee, is that your most embarrassing moment?

Train Whistles Get On Dog's Nerves

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Pat Evans, city employee, took his day off to complain to the city council about train whistles.

"I figure they whistle in Houston exactly 12,500 times a day," he said. "That's too much noise. Even if dogs howl, it is so nerve-racking."

He asked repeal of a law passed in 1893 requiring trains to whistle four times at each grade crossing.

RUSH AID FOR WRECKED SHIP

NEW YORK. (AP) — The freighter Cauto, of the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship company went aground near Puerto, Mexico, the Radiomarine Corp. reported today. Efforts were being made to launch a breeches buoy to rescue the crew.

The crew abandoned an attempt to reach shore in lifeboats in heavy seas after one boat was smashed and its chief officer lost overboard. Radiomarine heard from the Cayo Mambi which was in communication with the distressed ship.

The Cayo Mambi reported the oil burning freighter was filling up. She went aground at 7 p. m. yesterday.

The freighter, a 3571-ton vessel, normally carries a crew of 48. She left New York Nov. 12 and departed from Vera Cruz Nov. 23 for Puerto and Tampico.

Cruisers Win Decision Over Lipstick Factories

LONDON. (AP) — Prof. J. H. Jones told the Royal Commission on the Distribution of Industrial Population that for employment purposes one cruiser was worth a hundred lipstick factories.

"Yes, but a cruiser can be finished in a certain time, whereas lipstick goes on," argued Trade Union Leader Ernest Bevin.

"And it also comes off," chuckled Professor Patrick Abercrombie, another member of the commission.

Human Snake Claims Deadly Bite

SYDNEY, Australia. (AP) — George Aitken, 58, who styles himself "Pambara, the Snake Charmer," says his bite is poisonous enough to kill a man.

"It's because I have so much venom in my body," he explained, while recovering from a leg amputation.

Aitken said he had been bitten by poisonous snakes at least 200 times during his 40 years as a carnival showman. Recently physicians diagnosed the cause of a swollen leg as "slow snake-venom poison" and took off the leg to save his life.

DETROIT. (AP) — Students at the Detroit Institute of Technology are learning banking by operating their own bank, which is chartered by the Michigan banking department.

Known as the Educational Credit Union of Detroit, it is believed to be the only student bank in the United States under state supervision.

The credit union pays 4 per cent interest on deposits and charges students 6 per cent on loans made for educational purposes. Books as well as promissory notes are accepted as security.

OPEN DRIVE TO DISPOSE OF POTATOES

WASHINGTON. (AP) — The Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced today a program designed to encourage manufacture of part of this year's bumper crop of potatoes into starch and flour.

Aimed at increasing returns to growers, the program is divided into two parts.

Under the first part, manufacturers will be asked to submit offers for purchase and manufacture of potatoes into starch and flour for the surplus commodity corporation to distribute to relief agencies.

Under the second, manufacturers will be paid 40 cents per 165-pound barrel, or 24 cents a hundred, for potatoes they turn into starch and flour for distribution in regular market channels.

INSURANCE SALESMAN CHARGED WITH HIT-RUN

NEIGHBORS AID INJURED YOUTH

Broken Headlight Rim Said Clue to Car

Felony charges of hit-and-run driving faced George William Guenther, 45-year-old Santa Ana insurance salesman, as Ray Emerson, about 20, 1330 Custer street, lay in a county hospital bed today, apparently headed for recovery from injuries sustained in a crack-up on Nineteenth and Broadway streets Saturday afternoon.

Emerson was making a U-turn on Broadway street when a large sedan crashed into the rear of his car, throwing him out head-first into a curb.

The other car assertedly was driven away before a crowd of excited neighbors arrived to pick up the injured youth. It was nearly five hours later that Guenther was arrested at Fourth and Main streets.

Booked in the county jail on hit-and-run charges after his car was tentatively identified, the insurance salesman assertedly admitted having been involved in the accident when questioned by police yesterday noon.

Emerson was found to be suffering only from severe facial lacerations and bruises. He was examined for possible broken bones today.

Guenther's car was located through a description given by several witnesses. A headlight rim, found at the scene of the accident, reportedly fitted the machine.

Earl Warnecker, 818 1/2 North Van Ness street, a passerby in Emerson's car, was given first aid treatment for minor cuts and bruises.

Another Orange county motorist faced hit-and-run charges today, but there was no injury involved. John Bennett, Tustin, was charged with failing to report an accident at Chestnut and Main streets yesterday morning. Arraigned before Judge J. G. Mitchell, he pleaded not guilty and his case was set for 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Bennett assertedly stopped suddenly, and Inez Hunter struck his car in the rear, while Kenneth Wolf, 921 South Flower street, struck Miss Hunter's car from behind.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—California's grim wave of traffic accidents swept on yesterday, taking with it nine lives.

Seven deaths occurred in Los Angeles county and increased the toll here to 924 since Jan. 1.

Here's Another Place to Throw Old Razor Blades

HALIFAX, N. S. (Canadian Press)—Jack Redcloud, billed as the "Wonder Boy," chewed and swallowed a razor blade and an electric light bulb and picked up needles with his eyes as part of his act in a charity show last night. Less than an hour later, he was found by a policeman crumpled on a sidewalk.

After an emergency operation, his condition was described as "not serious."

Hospital authorities said he emitted several pieces of razor blades, tacks and chips of glass following the operation. Effect of the sharp objects on his system was given as cause of his illness. He is said to be a native of Los Angeles.

Elysian Park Slide Has Week-end Rest

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The moving mountain of Elysian park had apparently come to a rest today and city fathers scratched their heads over expensive rehabilitation problems.

The cliff sent 1,000,000 tons of earth, trees and rocks cascading down last Friday night, over Riverside drive and into the dry bed of the Los Angeles river.

Dr. J. P. Buwalda, geologist, expressed belief the trouble was over.

Jail Watchmen Who Robbed Clients by Day

CHICAGO (AP)—The partnership of Roach and Harrison was dissolved today by police.

Policemen Elmer Lodge and Lawrence Welsh said Rufus Roach, 26, and John Harrison, 26, negroes, confessed they operated a store watchman service after closing hours and engaged in robbery when their clients were open for business.

The activities of the pair came to light, the policemen said, when Harrison was captured while fleeing from a store that had been held up and Joseph Fishman, a subscriber of the watchman service, identified him as the man who had robbed him recently.

Illegal Zoning Charged in Suit

Charges by William E. Bartholomae, Jr., wealthy Newport harbor yachtsman, that Dr. Howard Seager, secretary of the city planning commission, was granted a zoning ordinance variance illegally will be aired in superior court Dec. 8.

Trials of the case, in which Bartholomae asks an injunction against Dr. Seager to prevent the erection of a building on a lot adjoining Bartholomae property was continued to that date today when the case was called in court.

Bartholomae, through the oil corporation of which he is president charged in his complaint that proceedings of the planning commission and the city council in which Dr. Seager was permitted to erect a building extending completely to the property line were insufficient and illegal.

The building, he alleges, will destroy the view from his two lots.

PLANE ATTACKS FRENCH SHIP

MARSEILLE, France (AP)—The French freighter Le Zardrieux reported today an attack by an airplane 15 miles northeast of Cape Creus, on the Spanish coast just south of the French border.

The message did not say whether the 1450-ton ship was damaged and did not mention the nationality of the plane.

After the bombardment, the freighter reported, the bomber flew off to the south. She said two other planes appeared over her and vanished toward the coast without attacking.

The Zardrieux, owned by the France-Navigation company, was bound from Marseille to Oran, Algeria.

GOVERNORS IN OIL BATTLE

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred today criticized the proposal of Governor E. W. Marland of Oklahoma for an oil conference and refused to participate.

He called the proposed parley a "price-fixing" conference and said state officials had no exemption from the anti-trust laws.

Marland had suggested a meeting of governors of oil states, with price "stabilization" one of its purposes.

In his reply to the Oklahoma governor, Allred said "the oil consuming states and consuming public in general would have as much right to complain against a combination of officials in a few oil producing states to artificially fix the price as they would against individuals doing the same thing."

Youthful Skater Starts Portland-Hollywood Trip

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Health and a small matter off $1500 are the reasons Ken Chrysler, 20, of Racine, Wis., and Chicago, is skating from Portland, Ore., to Hollywood.

He must make the trip in 30 days and used 20 days and 11 hours to get to San Francisco where he was allowed a three-day rest period. He has 18 days and 13 hours to get to Hollywood.

Chrysler, a professional skater, was one of three survivors of the fiery bus crash which killed 19 members of a skating troupe near Salem, Ill., last March. His body was seared by flames and his front teeth knocked out.

Weeks of suffering in a hospital followed and then Chrysler, young and wiry, was told he probably never would be able to follow his profession. Undismayed by the verdict Chrysler determinedly began practicing.

He told a Chicago skating club he felt so good he could skate from Portland to Hollywood. Members of the organization said he couldn't but were willing to give him $1500 if he did—in 30 days.

"I didn't even have to pay a toll, they told me it was on the bridge," Chrysler said laughingly. "Gee, they were swell."

On the recreation side, the U. S. park department has control of the entire lakeshore. Already a bathing beach, pier and yacht anchorage have been established and when the water reaches its permanent level there will be a more extensive development known as "The Oasis."

Thanksgiving Sales Hearten Growers

Presaging successful marketing of the entire banner Pacific Coast walnut crop, the growers' marketing committee today reported unusually heavy Thanksgiving sales.

Orange county contributed approximately 10,000,000 pounds of the entire coast crop, Lawrence Wakeham, Tustin member of the committee, reported.

Retail value of the crop this year is estimated between 20 and 25 million dollars, with a value to growers of between 10 and 14 millions. This would indicate a county return of more than $1,000,000.

The crop this year was 12 million pounds in excess of the next heaviest crop in the history of the industry, with prices the lowest in

Crippled Grocer Rescues Baby From Oil Sump Hole

Two-year-old Ronald Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy V. Craig, 612 Twelfth street, Huntington Beach, was saved from death in a deep sump hole yesterday by A. H. Baumann, crippled grocer of the beach town. The child had fallen into the oil-and-water-filled sump at the beach, and was found hanging from an iron rod projecting from the side.

Baumann was summoned by Everett Holderman and Ted Burtett, two 8-year-old boys, who heard the faint cries of the baby as they were passing. He hastened to the spot as rapidly as his crippled leg would allow and effected the rescue.

The baby, suffering from immersion and exhaustion, was taken home, where he was reported recovering.

2 ATTACKED IN FORD STRIKE

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Two men bearing marks of beating reported to work today at the Ford Motor company assembly plant, where the United Automobile Workers of America have called a strike, and said they were waylaid and assaulted "by union men."

The two, Floyd Atwell and Dallas Ashburn, were taken to a hospital where attaches said Atwell might lose the sight of one eye.

Ashburn was given first aid treatment and returned to work at the plant, which Manager Milton N. Johnson said operated "as usual."

Norman Smith, UAWA organizer who has charged the Ford company with bringing in "outside strikebreakers," refused to comment.

Johnson added that Eugene Graham, Ford employee starting to work, suffered a broken vertebrae when he tripped over a piano wire tied across his front steps.

CHANGES IN MARITIME LAWS URGED

Speaker Asks Subsidy For Merchant Marine

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—Prediction that the "feeling of pessimism" now prevalent concerning the future of the American merchant marine will be replaced by confidence within five years—if congress amends the maritime laws—was made today before the Mississippi Valley association by N. O. Pedrick, New Orleans shipping executive.

He urged congress delegate authority to the maritime commission to grant a ship construction differential subsidy "in excess of 50 per cent of the American cost of building if it (the commission) determines a greater subsidy is necessary to meet competition."

The shipping executive praised the recent report of the United States maritime commission and recommended the merchant marine act be amended to include the suggestions made by the commission.

'Lost' Concerto Heard in Berlin

BERLIN, (AP)—Robert Schumann's "lost" D-flat violin concerto has been given to the world of music 84 years after its birth. Adolf Hitler's favorite violinist, Georg Kulenkampf, interpreted its lyrical solo parts when the concerto had its world premiere with the Berlin philharmonic orchestra. Chancellor Hitler was in the audience.

The concerto was lost when Schumann was sent to a mental asylum for the last two years of his life. The Prussian state library obtained the original manuscript in 1907 and agreed the concerto would not be played until a century after the composer's death in 1856.

This restrictive clause was finally rescinded.

And they're decorative as they are delicious, white marshmallows and rosy fruit showing through a coat of crisp golden brown butter-scotch.

For the kisses, use the new midget marshmallows. Mothers And Psychology

By DALE CARNEGIE

Few mothers have studied psychology, but most of them practice it unwittingly every day.

Recently a mother of my acquaintance met a situation about as wisely as the most learned psychologist might have done. Old friends she had not seen in many years were coming.

Wishing her family to make a good impression, she primed her 13-year old daughter to be sure to show interest in the guests. No doubt the daughter's intentions were good, but when she sat before the group of older persons—oh, so old, to her—interest waned, and she spent the moments day-dreaming, looking bored, and making a nonentity of herself generally.

The next day her mother decided her shortcomings must be called to her attention.

"Mary, you embarrassed me dreadfully, last night," she began. "How did I embarrass you, mother?"

The mother went into details. Ah, a lasting impression was being made! But not at all. The child was pondering her own troubles.

When her mother had finished, she said in a low, hurt tone, not looking up, "Well, you embarrass me sometimes, too."

Her mother turned with a start, for the little girl was deadly serious.

"How do I embarrass you?"

Not so low as hardly to be heard at all, the hurt so poignant, "You—you—knitted at the dancing class—then with a sudden rush, her tone almost a wail, "and no one else was knitting."

Did this mother scold the child and tell her she was foolish, that knitting was nothing to be ashamed of? No. She realized only too well that what was embarrassing at one age was not at another. For a moment, however, she was stumped. Then she replied:

"Well, when you are older I don't think that will embarrass you, but since it does embarrass you now, I won't do it again. For we don't want to do things that will embarrass each other."

H. G. Wells, the English writer, selected as the three greatest men who ever stood on this earth: Jesus, Buddha, Aristotle. Two were religious leaders, the other a scientist.

My favorite quotation for today: "It is an undoubted truth that the less one has to do, the less time one finds to do it in."

FED. PROJECT GIVES SCHOOL XMAS MUSIC

The Federal Music Project, under the direction of Leon Eckles, will give a series of Christmas programs in the city schools for children of the fourth, fifth, sixth and junior high school grades, beginning Dec. 1, it was announced today. On this date, the symphony orchestra will present a concert at the Edison school at 1:30 p. m.

Mrs. Hazel Hesslein has been appointed by Frank Henderson, supervisor of Santa Ana schools, to supervise the entire city school concert series. Study material dealing with a description of the program selections has been prepared by Mrs. Hesslein for the students' use. Eckles will conduct.

These concerts, instituted last year, serve a 3-fold purpose. Eckles pointed out. They provide educational entertainment for the pupils, enlarge their capacities to understand and appreciate the world's great music, and afford instruction in instrumental grouping. In connection with the latter, the concerts are given with program intermissions in order to exhibit and demonstrate the various instruments singly.

An exceptional program has been arranged with the opening number designated as "Poupee Valsante" (Waltzing Doll) written originally for the piano by the celebrated Viennese composer, Poldini, and later arranged in orchestral form. The music of this delightfully simple little piece describes the dancing of a mechanical doll and is greatly loved by children.

Five numbers from the Nutcracker Suite, by Tchaikowsky, will be performed. The scenario of this ballet was based by the composer on one of Hoffman's fantastic stories, "Nutcracker and Mouseking," and the music portrays a Christmas Eve festival in the home of a little girl. These parts specifically depict (English translation) the "toy" dance, the dance of the Sugar Plum Fairy, the Chinese dance, "toy pipe" dance, and the waltz of the flowers.

Two numbers appropriate to the Yuletide season, the old Welsh air, "Deck the Hall," and the familiar carol, "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," will be sung by the children with symphonic accompaniment.

The full schedule of school concerts follows:

Dec. 1—Edison school (elementary) at 1:30 p. m.

Dec. 2—Willard school when two programs will be performed—the first for the elementary grades at 1:30 p. m., the second for the junior high students at 2:30 p. m.

Dec. 3—Fremont school (elementary) at 1:30 p. m.

Dec. 6—Santa Ana High school: Elementary, 1:30; junior high school, 2:30 p. m.

Dining Room May Decide Squabble Over Schools

STOW, Mass. (AP)—Which school the four children of Charles R. Brindley attend appeared today to depend on which end of the dining room they eat in.

Brindley moved his family into a house that straddles the line dividing the towns of Stow and Hudson, and he said the Stow school had refused to accept his children until assured that most of their living activities took place within the town limits. The dividing line runs through the dining room.

The state department of education, aroused because the children have remained at home for the last six weeks, said a ruling would be asked from Attorney General Paul A. Dever unless the matter is settled.

Commission May Aid Intercoastal Trade

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A group of four Pacific Coast congressmen expressed belief today the maritime commission would support legislation designed to encourage operation of first class merchant vessels in the intercoastal trade. After a conference with Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy of the commission, they said they believed the commission would support "such a program" when it was presented to congress in January.

"We recognize," they said in a statement, "that private companies cannot be expected to operate indefinitely on a losing basis."

Joining in the prediction were Representatives Richard J. Welch, (R., Calif.), Charles J. Colden (D., Calif.), and Conrad C. Wallgren (D., Wash.), all members of the house merchant marine committee, and Clarence F. Lea (D., Calif.), chairman of the three West Coast delegations in congress.

They called on Kennedy to express concern over the pending withdrawal of certain first class merchant vessels from the Pacific Coast trade and their transfer to the South American and Caribbean service.

"The facts presented at the conference," the statement said, "showed that the ships proposed to be withdrawn, even when running with full capacity passenger and cargo loads, were being operated at substantial losses. The facts strongly indicate the inadequacy of the present merchant marine act and the necessity of its revision in material respects if the country is to maintain an effective merchant marine."

Xmas Buyers Chase Theft Suspect

Captured after a hot footrace through downtown streets that were crowded with throngs of Saturday night shoppers, Ben Nichols, alias George Patterson, 45, Los Angeles, today pleaded guilty to the theft of two boxes of hosiery from the J. C. Penney company store at Fourth and Bush streets.

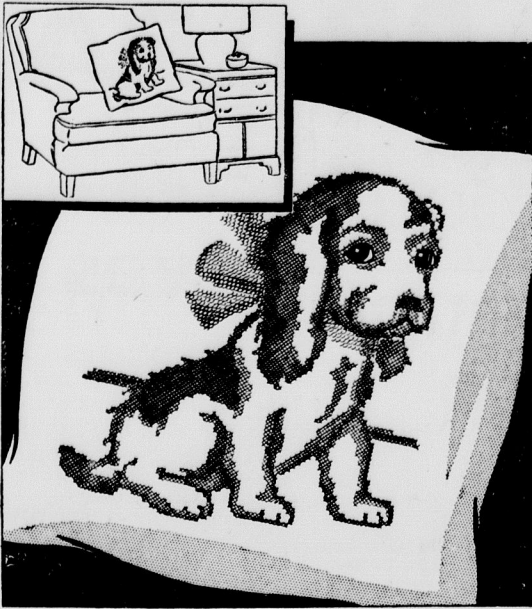

Nichols was accused of grabbing the hosiery, making a run for the front door, then dropping the boxes as two youths took up the chase. He was caught on Main street between Fourth and Fifth by Harley Babcock, a Penney employee, and Charles A. Green, Costa Mesa.

Nichols was held without bond after pleading guilty to petty theft before Justice of the Peace Kenneth E. Morrison today. Pronouncement of judgment was set for 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Old Shoes Tell Hidden Secrets of Their Owners

Shoes Santa Anans take to local cobblers for repairing tell all kinds of tales about their owners. The shoe repairman can tell fairly accurately how neatly a man runs his office or how carefully a woman tends her home.

"A pair of unpolished, battered and ripped ladies' shoes generally means that the owner never worries much over a stack of dirty dishes in the kitchen sink, unmade beds and dusty furniture," one repairman observed. "Due allowances must be made, however, in this regard. Perhaps the possessor wears them around her home only, or maybe finances enter into the picture."

Many cobblers believe they can analyze faulty shoe fitting from the way the heels and soles wear out. Soles having holes in one side or the other often times reveal improper fitting or incorrect walking or posture. The natural place for soles to wear is at the center; the heels at the back, rather than either side.

Importance of wearing the right style shoe is emphasized by Frank Gregory, a local repairman. Says Frank:

"That pain in your back may not be your back at all—it may be your feet. Maybe you are wearing the wrong style of shoe and don't know it." Frank believes that man does not make his shoes so much as the shoes make the man. Irritable dispositions are among the ailments developed by uncomfortable shoes, points out Frank.

In the matter of comfort, Paul Comito, another local shoe repairman, looks sourly upon high heels.

Ana Nov. 11, and were six days en route to the capital and five days returning. They report that all but 100 miles of the highway is paved.

High heels, he admits, however, are far more attractive on most women than low ones.

A profitable sideline in several shoe repair businesses here is based entirely upon the conflict between comfort on the one hand and vanity on the other. The demand for this service arises when a woman purchases a pair of size four shoes knowing only too well her foot is made for a size six. After wearing the new shoes for a short time she concludes for the sixty-fifth time in her life that her feet are just a wee bit too large for size four shoes. So, to the repairman go the shoes, with the order to have them stretched accordingly.

The man who permits the heels to his shoes to run down a quarter of an inch or more before getting them repaired soon falls into the habit of walking at an angle. When finally new heels are placed on the shoes, his feet, still accustomed to the worn heels, begin wearing down the repaired foot-wear in just the same place as before they were patched. On the other hand, the individual who has repair work done frequently has unconsciously trained his feet to wearing shoes in good repair. His heels wear out slowly.

This explains, Ross W. Strimple says, why women using run down shoes about their homes find the new footwears they wear to parties and social events being quickly ruined at the heels.

The distance by water from New York to Boston is 144 miles shorter by the Cape Cod canal than by Nantucket lightship.

FINES RANGE FROM $8 UP

Fines for major traffic offenses ranged from $8 to $150 in Santa Ana city court Saturday as motorists charged with drunk driving, reckless driving and speeding paraded past Judge J. G. Mitchell. Susano Ortega, 502 Adams street, was committed to county jail in lieu of $150 to pay a drunk driving fine.

Gene Parks, 315 East First street, pleaded guilty to a reckless driving charge and paid a $25 fine. Also fined $25 was Clarence H. Hagstrom, Berkeley, charged with speeding 65 miles an hour in a 45-mile zone on La Veta street and Santa Ana boulevard. He had been cited to appear Nov. 12.

Other speeding fines: Wilson J. Steele, Bloomington (speeding and four in front seat), $11; Ulysses Basham, Fullerton, $8; G. B. Witman, Ontario, $8, and James W. Goble, Long Beach, $8.

2 Girls Nabbed In Wild Chase

LONG BEACH. (AP)—Two young Oakland girls, whom police reported capturing in a wild automobile chase, were held on suspicion of burglary here today.

They said they were Emma Mae Stanley, 24, and Dovie Lloyd, 16, sisters.

Tipped that burglars were looting a service station early yesterday, officers sighted a car containing the girls and pursued. The chase ended when the car swerved on a turn and hit a tree.

Detective Lieut. Charles Guthro said a flashlight in the car, registered to Thomas B. Wilson, jr., of 750 Warfield avenue, Oakland, was identified as the station owner's property.

The girls denied they were involved in a burglary.

Supreme Court Justices Vote for More Color

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Sartorial experts discovered today that the supreme court—by a six to three decision—has switched to gayer neckwear.

Heretofore the court has divided five to four in favor of judicial black.

This review is not based on hearsay evidence or casual observation, but on close scrutiny of the chokers chosen by the justices for their last two official photographs.

The previous lineup, based on a 1932 picture, was: Chief Justice Hughes, narrow stripe; McReynolds, black bow; Brandeis, small polka dot; Sutherland, triple-stripe design; Butler, faint stripe; Stone, Roberts, Cardozo, and Can Devanter, black.

Three of the justices reversed their taste in 1937.

Justice Stone went from "black to a figured foulard . . . McReynolds from black to a small figure . . . and Brandeis went conservative, forsaking a polka for black.

Justice Van Devanter's retirement took away one vote for the somber-hued side, but his successor, Justice Black, wore a tie spangled with big dots.

Justices Butler and Sutherland have toned down for 1937, but they

TEACHERS URGE MORE HUMOR

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Possible addition to your child's studies: "Humor and how to acquire it."

Miss Winifred H. Nash told the National Council of Teachers of English experiments showed "high intelligence and a lively sense of humor generally go together."

"Educating the student's sense of humor is a social responsibility often ignored in the English curriculum," said Miss Nash. "Much time is spent in teaching punctuation, grammar and sentence structure, but little time in helping students appreciate humor."

"Yet the cultivation of a student's sense of humor contributes far more to his social education than do rules for the use of the comma."

Church Young Folk Present Play

Young people of the First Christian church were in charge of regular evening services in the church last night, presenting a play, musical selections, followed by a Chinese tea.

Robert Sullivan played a violin solo, accompanied by Miss Margaret Sullivan. "Living Flame," a short drama, was given by eight young people, including Eloise Sullivan, Norman Haskell, Ruth Rime, Allan Howell, Dick Brown, Charles Hildebrandt, C. L. Steen, and J. D. Cobb.

Members of the high school Christian Endeavor were in charge of the tea, for which the rooms were decorated with Chinese scrolls, silk hangings and other pieces, furnished by Miss Fern Hendricks, who had secured them from Mrs. Minnie Moore Gray, missionary to China.

PRISON FOR CHINO SITE APPROVED

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—A state supreme court decision today, holding that the special Southern California prison commission has power to bring a condemnation suit for the desired site, cleared away obstacles which have been delaying construction of the new prison at Chino.

A commission was established by the legislature in 1935 to select a site and build the prison. However, owners of the land chosen, the American Crystal Sugar company and the Chino Land and Water company, refused to sell.

The State of California then instituted eminent domain proceedings to get the land condemned, but the land owners protested that the state was not the proper party to bring the suit, and that the commission itself should appear as plaintiff.

A superior court in San Bernardino county refused to dismiss these objections and the case was then hurried to the supreme court on a petition for a writ of mandate to compel the lower court to go ahead with the trial.

The high court held that despite the fact the special legislative act creating the commission failed to state specifically the commission should be empowered to bring condemnation proceedings, this power was nevertheless implied when the commission was directed to "provide for the purchase" of a site, and to "establish" the prison. The original condemnation suit was filed Jan. 2. Now a new one must be instituted.

test with teams from 24 state agricultural colleges and one from Canada competing. Kansas state was the defending championship team.

A team from Warner, Okla., won the non-collegiate livestock judging contest that marked the opening of the 16th annual 4-H club congress.

Approximately 1200 farm youths, most of them chosen for outstanding 4-H club work, will participate in the national boys' and girls' club congress next week. They come from 44 states.

Expected attendance at the exposition was estimated at 500,000. Prizes total $100,000.

Record Entry List Noted As Livestock Show Opens

CHICAGO. (AP)—Groomed to perfection, $5,000,000 worth of prize livestock consisting of almost 13,000 head of cattle, swine, sheep and horses, vied for championship honors before the critical eyes of judges at the opening day of the 38th annual International Livestock exposition.

Concentrated within a seven-acre area, the exhibition represented supreme efforts of livestock raisers and grain farmers toward higher quality production in almost all the states and five Canadian provinces. There are entries from Australia, too, among the 5000 samples of grain on display.

First on the program was steer judging in the junior feeding contest. The fat, sleek animals in this class were raised and brought to the show by youthful "farmers of tomorrow."

Another feature was the intercollegiate livestock judging con-

The colorful careers of Floyd (Toy) Blower and Floyd (Monty) Montgomery, as two good ball-packing backs ever to romp in a Saint uniform, were rocketed back by Bill Musick last Saturday afternoon against Long Beach Poly.

Musick, brother of ex-Trojan Jace Musick, definitely took his place along side of Blower and Montgomery who led Saint championship teams in '31 and '32. He can kick and run as well as either. His torrid line smashes and drive for that extra yard stumps him as one of the leading backs in Southern California.

The Saint eleven worked as one machine for the first time this season against the Jackrabbits. They went out and punched over two quick scores over the cocky beach team and then valiantly held their one point advantage through the final half. When Long Beach appeared headed for certain scores, the line "dug in" and the backs came through with their really fine pass defensive play.

Now that Long Beach is behind them, Coach W. W. (Bill) Foote's lads should carry off without too much trouble that covered Southern California high school crown. They should get past Santa Barbara this week. The northern team has been in almost every playoff in the past six years but have never gone beyond the second round.

Santa Ana and San Bernardino, finalists in the Eastern J. C. conference grid standings, should grab the lion share of the all-conference team.

The Dons will have four or possibly five on the "all" team. The Indians should place at least three. The game this Friday will determine largely who of these men will make the team.

Here are our selections for the Dons: Co-Capt. Erwin Yonel and John Joseph at the ends, Russell (Rusty) Roquet, a second-string all-conference last season, at tackle. Les McLennan or Blas Mercurio to take over a backfield berth at quarter or full. The Indians rate these: Bill Mathie or Bobby Templeton in the backfield. Jim Verdick, because of his place kicking ability and outstanding line play, at center. Haggard at running guard.

In order to complete the team put Pomona's John Casey and Citrus' Ernie Poore at the remaining backfield posts. Move Fullerton's "Pony" Swenson over to guard and put Riverside's Bob Holmes at the other tackle position.

VILLANOVA'S
EXPECT BID

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—The Wildcats of Villanova, with a perfect slate for the 1937 football season, relaxed today, expecting a post-season bowl invitation.

Villanova finished a brilliant season in sensational style yesterday, blanking Loyola of Los Angeles, 25 to 0.

The Wildcats are scheduled to entrain for San Francisco tonight for a brief stay before continuing their long journey back to Pennsylvania.

Villanova officials are intimating they would be receptive to invitations to play New Year's day in the Sugar Bowl contest at New Orleans, the Cotton Bowl or Dallas or Miami's Orange Bowl.

It's A First Down For The Bruins!

Swarmed over by a horde of Missouri tacklers, and about ready to topple, Fullback Billy Bob Williams (55) of UCLA, made it a first down on this plunge. No. 22 is Jett, Missouri halfback, UCLA won 13 to 0.

Drums Beating for Panthers in Rose Bowl

EXPERTS IN RUSH FOR BAND WAGON

PITTSBURGH. (AP)—The Pacific Coast football experts ridiculed the selection of Pitt's prancing Panthers for the Rose Bowl about this time last year but they're getting on the bandwagon now.

Coinciding with the Panthers' triumphant return from Durham, N. C., where they completed an undefeated season with a 10 to 0 victory over Duke, the Post-Gazette today printed a poll of coast sports writers.

TEAM WANTS PITT

Here is the way some of them feel:

Jack James, Los Angeles Examiner—"Generally agreed Pitt is strongest team in country. Would put up stiffest game, probably win it. Fordham not popular choice, feeling being that team which could beat St. Mary's only 6-0 hardly the best. While not in complete sympathy with California's effort to go Ivy league, some of us would like to see some other team than Pitt or Alabama. Complete sellout certain in any event."

L. G. Gregory, Portland Oregonian—"My vote goes triple strong for Pittsburgh. One of California's first string tackles, Bill Stoll, home for Thanksgiving, told me the kids on the team would like best to play Pitt, through there never has been any vote on it."

'SIX OF THEM'

George T. Davis, Los Angeles Herald-Express—"Believe Pittsburgh strongest team in east."

Art Rosenbaum, San Francisco Chronicle—"Nothing official here, but California players, students show strong sentiment for Pitt. Little hope for Fordham we think."

Royal Brougham, Seattle Post-Intelligencer—"I think Pittsburgh is best team in country, but personally after what they did to our Washington Huskies I am sick of seeing them."

New Cronin, Los Angeles Evening News—"Personal opinion on eastern bowl team is Fordham or Alabama. Poll of California players favored Pitt while Coach Allison said he would play anybody. Pitt stands no more than outside chance of playing because they are too tough."

PRIESTLEY PROMISES DECISION 'SOON'

BERKELEY. (AP)—Solution of the annual Rose Bowl mystery was promised "soon" by Kenneth Priestley, graduate manager of the University of California.

Technically the mystery is only half a mystery for California by winning the Pacific Coast football conference title received the bid to represent the Pacific Coast in the annual gridiron classic. The other half of the mystery is—who will play California?

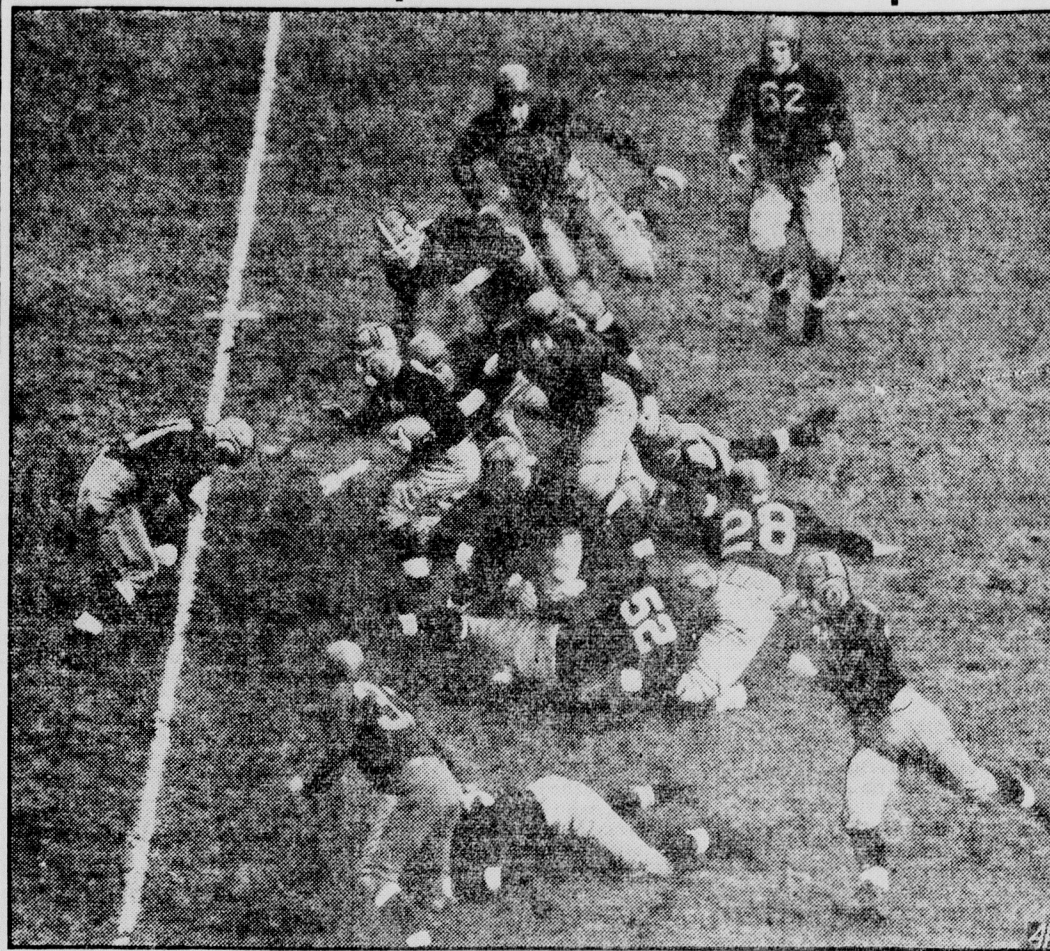

Solution of the mystery may come in the dark of night. Priestley said he would announce the name of the chosen team "regardless of the hour, day or night."

It is the general opinion that selection of California's opponent will be made within a few days and will be either Pittsburgh, Fordham or Alabama.

Pittsburgh and Alabama are old hands at playing in the Rose Bowl and it was felt Fordham may get the bid for that reason. Fordham was unbeaten, but tied once during the season by Pittsburgh.

CLAIM FLEET CHAMPIONSHIP SAN PEDRO. (AP)—Football men of the U. S. S. Pennsylvania claimed the championship of the fleet today after winning their fifth game of the season, 22-0, at the expense of the U. S. S. Nevada. The Pennsylvania won the title in 1935 and 1936.

Pigskin Honors
Go Back to East

NEW YORK. (AP)—Out of the hurly-burly of the fading football season rises one striking development—the obvious swing of the gridiron pendulum back to the East.

Of the ten major eleven which have completed their campaigns without defeat, six represent the eastern sector and at least four of these must be given consideration in any national championship debate.

The final returns on undefeated teams found the East represented by Pittsburgh, Fordham, Villanova, Dartmouth, Holy Cross and Lafayette; the South by Alabama; the Far West by California and Santa Clara, and the Rocky Mountain district by Colorado.

Pitt and Fordham, who played each other to a scoreless draw in the only game either failed to win, generally will be ranked as the East's most powerful machines. Supporters of Villanova and Dartmouth may dissent but the fact remains that the Panther and Bear went through more testing schedules than either of the other two.

The weekly Associated Press ranking poll almost certainly will find Pitt still holding the No. 1 spot followed by California, Alabama and Fordham, possibly in the order. That would furnish an ideal line-up for the Rose Bowl and Sugar Bowl games in the event California decides not to invite Alabama. The pairings on New Year's day at Pasadena then could be California against Pitt and at New Orleans, Alabama against Fordham.

Last week's competition settled every major conference championship except in the Southwest where Rice's Owls, victors by a 7-0 count over Baylor, clinched the crown by whipping Southern Methodist this Saturday. If the Owls get no better than a draw with S. M. U., the championship will end in a tie between Rice and Texas Christian's Horned Frogs who spilled Southern Methodist, 3-0, on Saturday on a fourth-period field goal by Davey O'Brien.

A defeat for Rice automatically will give the title to Texas Christian.

BIGGEST CROWD

The season's biggest crowd, 102,000, sat through rain and fog at Philadelphia to see Army, striking through the air in the early minutes, score a touchdown and then hang on to gain a 6-0 triumph over Navy in the annual duel between the service academies.

Columbia closed a drab season with a moral victory by holding heavily-favored Stanford to a 0-0 draw, thanks mostly to the passing, running, and kicking of Sid Luckman.

Santa Clara May Get Sugar Bowl Bid

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—University of Santa Clara's football team remained one of the nation's undefeated football teams today and a possible sugar bowl nominee by virtue of its 27 to 0 victory over Gonzaga university of Spokane, Wash., yesterday.

Before a crowd of 18,000 fans witnessing the first major football game ever played here, the Broncos scored a touchdown in each quarter and made yardage almost at will to make their victory even more impressive.

The Bulldogs were unable to stop the vicious off tackle slashes which netted Santa Clara four hunkies of yardage time and again.

WHITE 1937
SCORE KING

With practically all the returns in, Byron (Whizzer) White, Colorado's greatest all-around back, is safely ensconced on the throne as kingpin of the point getters for the 1937 football season.

White closed his regular season Thanksgiving day by scoring 22 points to bring his total for eight games to 122 and remain the leader from Sid White of Brooklyn college. A recent last week showed an extra point after touchdown in Sid's totals, bringing his count for the year to 113.

The Colorado ace bettered last year's high totals of 119 points by Charles Thomas of Delta (Miss.) Teachers and 117 by Norman Schoen of Baldwin-Wallace, but he couldn't approach the all-time mark of 210 points, made in 1920 by James C. Leech of V. M. I.

15-12 Decision
Paves Title Way

By BOB GUILD

Saints, 15; Jackrabbits, 12.
Santa Ana's scintillating Citrus Belt champions today have their big guns trained on Santa Barbara—next in their drive for a C. I. F. gridiron title.

On the broad shoulders of plunging Bill Musick, Coach

Bill Foote's boys rode to a stirring upset victory over the favored Long Beach Poly Jackrabbits Saturday in Municipal Bowl, to earn the right to play the Dons in a semi-final championship tilt next Saturday.

It was a wildly thrilling game, which saw both squads engage in a touchdown spree in the first half then settle down to a grim battle during the last two quarters.

Two touchdown thrusts early in the game, plus Musick's up-right-splitting conversion, spelled victory for the Saints, before 5000 fans. A last minute safety added two superfluous points.

The Saints capitalized quickly on one of those breaks of the game, early in the first quarter.

TOUCHDOWN PASS
Dusky McGowen of Poly faked back to the end zone, sprang from the Santa Ana 45 to the Long Beach 24 before being forced out of bounds. In five plays the Saints had a touchdown.

A beautiful pass, from Hamaker to Warhurst in the end zone, which the lanky end grabbed with two men guarding him, spelled the score. The ball was tossed from the Santa 14. Musick followed with a perfect conversion.

Six plays later the Saints had scored again.

MUSICK MARCHES
Musick kicked off to Berryman the Poly 15. Berryman returned 10 yards to the 25, but Long Beach was penalized 15 yards for clipping, from the 32-yard line, setting the ball back on the Poly 17. McGowen made six over guard, then lost 10 when Horton broke through to smear an attempted pass.

Musick returned McGowen's punt from the Long Beach 45 to the 35. Musick made five at center, on a reverse. Musick made 10 at left tackle. Musick made six at left tackle. With the ball on the Long Beach 11, the teams changed sides for the second quarter, and on the next play Piper scooted wide around right end for a touchdown.

Hamaker, attempting to place the ball down for a conversion, fumbled. Santa Ana, 13; Long Beach, 0.

The enraged Jackrabbits quickly got back to the touchdowns, but failed to make either conversion. Costly Santa fumbles paved the way for both Long Beach scores.

LONG BEACH TURN
Hamaker fumbled on the Saint 41, Stone recovering for Poly. On the next play McGowen reversed to Bowen, who cut to the sidelines, cackawalking the entire way to the goal line, with not a Santa Ana touching him. Barr's kick was wide.

Two plays later, Musick, attempting to pass, was rushed by right end Lane, who ran him from his own 41 to the Santa Ana 24, where Bill fumbled as he was tackled. Webb recovered for Long Beach. Four plays worked the ball to Santa Ana's 10-yard line, from where McGowen passed to Tucker in the end zone for Poly's second touchdown. Klepper broke through to block the conversion kick, and the score was 13-12 at the half.

SAINTS RECOVER
Late in the quarter the Saints drove to the Long Beach two-yard line in a series of bone-crushing line plays featuring pliedriving assaults by Musick, only to have the touchdown threat ended by the gun.

In the second half, both teams settled down to a vicious, ding-dong battle, with Santa Ana clinging desperately to that one-point lead, which loomed larger and larger as the minutes fled.

Again and again sparkling defensive walls turned back the enraged Jackrabbits. Poly drove to the 11-yard line in the third quarter, only to have Piper, in a desperate, twisting dive, knock down an end-zone pass that spelled a

SAINTS PLAY IN BOWL

Drawing the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl for their second toughest assignment in the C. I. F. Southern California high school football playoffs, the Saints tackle Santa Barbara, free-lance champions of their district, in the semi-final round Saturday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. The victor will go into the finals against either El Monte, winner of the San Gabriel Valley loop, or Glendale, champion of the Foothill league.

Cooper V. W. (Bill) Foote's squad came out of the Long Beach engagement with two slight injuries, Larry Stump has a bruised calf, while Wayne Piper sports a bad hip.

Tickets for the tilt will go on sale tomorrow at Neal's Sporting Goods, Vic Walker's Sporting store and Al's Lock's and Key Shop. The price for the duels will be 50 cents until 6 o'clock Friday afternoon, selling for 75 cents at the gate.

TECH PICKS
BOWL TEAM

EL PASO. (AP)—The athletic council of Texas Tech was to meet today to select an opponent for its Red Raiders in the New Year's day Sun Bowl grid classic here.

The Texans were considering a list, which included both Mississippi and Mississippi State, but Sun Bowl officials said last night Gonzaga University of Spokane, Wash., probably would get the call.

Talk of Colorado University's playing in the Dallas Cotton Bowl was fading that school out of the Sun Bowl picture, the officials said.

certain six points, on fourth down. Attempting a fourth down punt, Musick fumbled, picked up the ball and ran to the Santa Ana 37 in the fourth quarter, again giving Poly another precious break. A 13-yard run by Bowen put Poly on the 21, but two passes into the end zone fell incomplete, and two line plays were stopped, giving Santa Ana the ball on its 26.

A flurry of last-hope passes had the stands raving a few moments later, as Poly drove again. Seedberg, substituting for McGowen, completed one to Santa Ana 18, only to have it nullified by a backfield in motion penalty.

The win, with only a few seconds to play, the Saints added two points on the safety that spelled final victory. Barnes' beautiful punt into coffin corner rolled out of bounds on Poly's one-yard line. The kick was from the Poly 48.

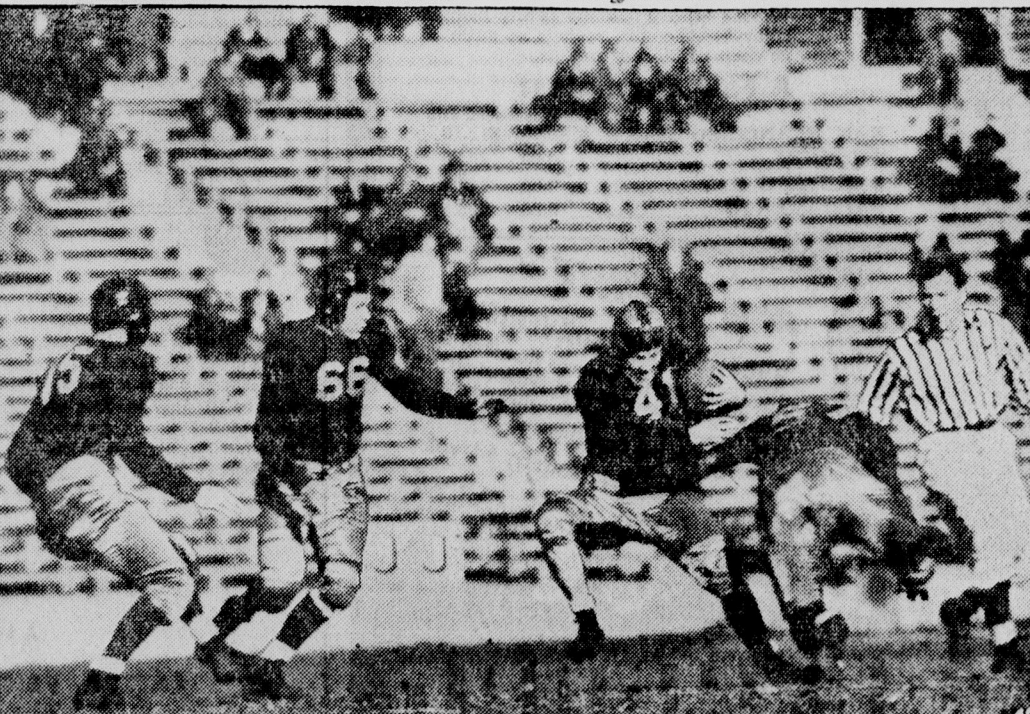

Cooper, on a fake kick, passed to Seedberg from behind his own goal line, but Horton broke through to spill the Poly half-back in his tracks, making the score:

SAINTS, DONS ON ALL-STAR

PREPSTERS LAND THREE ON ELEVEN

Bill Musick, Larry Stump and Bob Maddock, who were instrumental in aiding Santa Ana High school's Saints to win the Citrus Belt league title, were placed on the C. B. L. all-conference eleven today by the All Southern California Board of Football Selections for 1937.

Musick, who sparked at full-back for the Coach Foote squad was shifted to halfback while Stump held down tackle. The three gridirers have been outstanding in their defensive and offensive play all season.

Capt. Don Warhurst, a converted center, was valuable enough at end to earn him a second nomination from the board.

Pomona, which was defeated by the Saints but tied for the title, stole the lion's share of the all-league honors, placing four on the first eleven and two on the runner-up eleven. Karns and Monnie at quarter and full, and Twerrel and Minnick at center and guard, were the honored Red Devils.

Riverside and Chaffey both placed two, filling out the team.

Enraged Indian Hauls Down Luckman of Columbia

An unidentified Stanford player got Sid Luckman, Columbia's star back, around the waist and pulled until he brought Sid down with only a short gain in the Stanford-Columbia contest in New York. Sigal (28), Columbia, is trying to provide interference against Anderson (25), Stanford.

J. C. BOASTS ROQUET AND CRAWFORD

Santa Ana's Junior college Dons, who only a year ago stole all-conference honors with five players selected on the first team, could muster but two, Russell (Rusty) Roquet and Joe Crawford, on the first eleven of the 1937 Eastern J. C. conference, while Santa Bernardino had five men selected by the All-Southern California Board of Selections.

According to the results, the Dons placed six on the second string to two for the Indians. Erwin Youel and John Joseph were placed at the wings, with Elias Mercurio, Ed Stanley and Mac Beall holding down backfield berths along with Bill Mathie of Berdoo. Danny Boyd took over the center post.

The Santa Bernardino nominees were End, Froude, tackle, Simms; center, Jim Verdieck; backs, Bobby Templeton and Avery Monfort. Pomona placed Johnny Casey and Willie Reynolds, while Riverside's Renfro was selected, completing the squad.

The board for '37 consists of Kenneth Frogley and Lupi Saldana of the Los Angeles Daily News, Charles Genuit and John Beckman of the Evening News, Max Stiles and Maury Powell of the Examiner, George T. Davis and Jack Holmes of the Evening Herald-Express, Braven Dyer and Charles Curtis of the Times and Lowell Redelings and Stanley Speers of the Hollywood Citizen-News.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. ROBB

Mrs. Robb and the writer attended the grand opening of the new Southern California Branch of the Townsend National headquarters and social center located at 855 South Figueroa St., Los Angeles held last Saturday afternoon and evening. The building is ideal for Townsend purposes and consists of lower and upper floors with numerous rooms capable of being converted into needed offices. In addition on the lower floor is a large room which will be used for lecture room and club meeting purposes. There is also a kitchenette and an adjoining dining room on this floor. Upstairs there are rooms which will be used for offices and a large one which will be used as a ball room on certain nights of each week and at other times for assembly purposes. The writer learned that the overhead cost for rental of the new headquarters will be $250 per month which considering the downtown location is reasonable and within the abilities of the Townsend movement. Mr. Joe P. Charlebois, National Townsend representative will be in charge of the office and Captain Russell R. Hand, newly appointed Southern California supervisor of Townsend work in the congressional districts from 10 to 20 will maintain an office in the lower floor of the building. He will also have the Townsend Tokens management in his charge.

The grand opening began at 2 p. m. and lasted until after 10 p. m. with something doing every minute. Numerous speakers were featured during the afternoon and evening and a stream of writers and goers bent on inspection of the new premises continued all through the day and evening. The guests were asked to register when they could be contacted and many did, but there were many who doubtless were missed. The writer met many interesting people and was elated at spirit of Townsend plan optimism which generally prevailed. The coming home wasn't so pleasant as a part of the London fog recently bedeviling Londoners evidently got lost and settled down over the Los Angeles area. At times it was so thick one could almost cut it with a knife but by slow going and the good fortune to not meet any drunk drivers the writer and his final got home without mishap, which in these days is something to be thankful for.

Orange Club No. 1 will meet at 7:30 this evening in the Townsend club building at 149 South Glassell street with J. A. Green the presiding officer in charge.

La Habra Club No. 1 meets at 7:30 in the Masonic hall on Central avenue with E. E. Proud as the presiding officer. What's the matter Rev. Sutton that you don't send in notices concerning your club news? Let's hear from you regularly each week. Send your notices to Walter R. Robb, Santa Ana, Lock Box 441.

Miss Jane E. McKee, secretary of Santa Ana Club No. 1, will read that Rev. Josiah Tucker of Placentia will be the club's speaker at 7:30 tomorrow evening in the Community building of the First Christian church at West Sixth and North Broadway. A. M. McPherson presiding over the meeting and introduce the speaker.

"ALIBI GIRL"

Begin here: Nancy Roland, summoned to police headquarters supposedly to aid in solving the mysterious murder of her wealthy uncle, Dodge Roland, realizes, after hours of questioning, that she is being accused of the crime! "But I was with my cousin, Alan, at the time uncle was murdered Thursday night, July 1," she insists. Captain Wyman thereupon summons Jory. As though a blow had been struck against her body, she hears her cousin testify it was Wednesday, June 30—not Thursday, July 1, the night of the murder. "They were together! Then, an oil station attendant called by Wyman testified to having seen Nancy on the night of June 30. Now go on with the story."

CHAPTER THREE

Nancy wondered later how she could have been so calm, how she could have sat there saying over and over to herself, "Alan is lying." Saying it not in a panic but evenly and sanely. "Alan is lying."

The others weren't so calm. Wyman had lost his serenity, and was snapping his pencil nervously in his hands. The man in gray was shuffling his feet, running a finger along his soft collar, looking at the sergeant-stenographer had dropped his note book and was searching on the floor for it, his face red with exertion.

The sergeant detective had taken his hands away from his stomach. One of them was mopping his brow with a great brown handkerchief.

Alan was leaning forward in his chair, his eyes on the floor, his face more flushed than Nancy had ever seen it before.

Two more detectives came into the room in plain clothes, but they didn't sit down—there were no more chairs for them. They stood by the door.

At times Nancy felt detached from the room, as if she were not in it with these others, but above it, viewing it for some reason that was obscure and understandable.

Seeing everything that these strangers did, the exception of Alan who were doing, hearing what they were saying, but not really a part of their conversations and their actions.

At times even when she looked at Alan, she couldn't believe that it was he, and he was here, and he had lied. Once when she looked at him he seemed a stranger like the others, she seeing him for the first time.

His face handsome, his brown hair waving over his brow, those broad shoulders which had been almost as broad when he was sixteen and she was ten. How old he seemed then! How grown up, and she a lonely child.

The dark blue suit disappeared under her gaze and was replaced by baggy corduroy trousers and a white sweat shirt, and she saw the same Alan who had shaken hands with her when she had first seen him at her uncle's house.

A handshake not firm then and strong the way it was now, but flabby, the handshake of youth.

WHIM OF FATE

The two of them, she the child, and Alan the budding youth thrown together by a strange whim of fate, meeting when they might never had met but for that fate which took her father away and his mother.

Nothing in common 10 years ago, but the uncle who was part of the blood of both of them whose roof and hospitality they shared. Nothing in common now, nothing more than they had always had. They saw each other occasionally, more from a sense of duty to Dodge Roland than anything else.

When they met, they were cordial, perhaps a little too cordial and a little too polite because they were conscious stricken both of them that they hadn't become better friends.

The past four months since Nancy had quarreled with Dodge Roland, Alan had phoned regularly once a week to ask now she was. Nancy rarely fancied that he did this because her uncle wanted to keep track of her, but she had never asked Alan.

Usually twice a month they spent an evening together—a duty evening for him, she imagined as well as for her, but neither of them confessed that either.

There was so much they never had confessed to each other, she thought as she watched him. They had accepted each other, and in her long association with her cousin she didn't know him very well, and he probably didn't know her very well.

Surface talk, business matters—for Alan had advised her on the library when she and Olive Teale were contemplating it.

REVEALING CONVERSATIONS

But never had they had any of those revealing conversations she had had with other men. Tom Miley, for instance, or a dozen others who had come into her life before Tom.

They had never quarreled—but then there was never anything to quarrel about. Alan had never displayed any kind of temper that she had seen—indeed of the two of them, it was she who had the temper.

Alan was calm, rather phlegmatic. At times she thought he was inclined to be a bit too conciliatory. He never crossed Dodge Roland—never in the 10 years she had known him.

Nancy had crossed her uncle many times—she couldn't possibly agree with all his ideas when many of them were so contrary to her own.

His hatred for Tom Miley, for instance, so positive, so deadly. When there was no reason for it, simply that Tom had the same name of an enemy of Dodge Roland's—a name he had hated in his youth and who he still hated violently and unforgettably.

If it had been any sensible reason, it wasn't even sane. Nancy had tried to make Alan see that, but even Alan couldn't.

Alan had told her to forget Tom Miley. "Alan is lying," she said to herself again.

"Miss Roland," Wyman resumed, "were you familiar at all with this new invention of your uncle's? This improved electric light bulb?"

"I knew he had completed it—just as I knew he had been working on it for years," she replied.

"You knew the invention had been completed?"

"My cousin told me, Thursday night."

"Did he tell you the price?"

"FIVE MILLION."

"Something like five million dollars I believe."

"Did he tell you that when the final arrangements for the deal were complete Dodge Roland was going to give the whole five millions to charity?"

"He did."

"He explained this to you on Wednesday when you were out riding?"

"Thursday evening, Captain Wyman." She spoke firmly, and found herself looking straight into the eyes of the man in gray. His face seemed more familiar now that her fright was gone, and she was so calm.

She had seen his features before, but she couldn't remember where she had seen them. She thought because she couldn't remember where she had seen them, that she must never have met him, but must have glimpsed him some place in the street, in a bus, perhaps even seen his picture in a newspaper or magazine.

Alan Jory looked up. "Captain Wyman, I think my cousin needs a lawyer." His voice to Nancy sounded strained.

"We'll tend to that later, Mr. Jory. In the meantime, we'll see whether that gas station attendant has been found. Murphy?"

One of the plain clothes men standing near the door came forward.

"Did you find the man who was on night duty at the Santa Monica and Maryland gas station Wednesday, June 30?"

"HE'S WAITING."

"Bring him in."

Like the private watchman, the man who came in settled his eyes on Nancy.

She couldn't help seeing a flicker of recognition pass over his

TOUGH DAY'S WORK FACES SUPERVISORS

VITAMIN 'S' TOPIC FOR SERMON

An interesting analysis of why practicing religion is essential to the man and woman of today was projected yesterday morning from his pulpit in the First Baptist church by the Rev. Harry Evan Owings.

His sermon, entitled "Vitamin 'S,'" follows in part:

"Some years ago some sailors on a long voyage, during which they did not touch a port, had plenty of good food for the entire time, but strangely enough broke out with a scurvy. When the reason for it was sought it was discovered that their diet lacked a certain essential supplied by such foods as fresh fruit and vegetables. Their adequately fed bodies so far as bulk was concerned were not well fed so far as content was concerned. There was lacking a certain vitamin.

VITAMIN NEED

"The church exists to supply man with what may be called a vitamin, a spiritual vitamin which it has been discovered is essential to healthy and joyous life. It has to do with spiritual vision and uplift, and may be designated as Vitamin 'S.' Long ago an ancient writer said, 'Man is not to live by bread only but by every thing that proceedeth from God.'

"So eminent a psychologist as Henry Link, in 'The Return to Religion,' tells us that he forces himself to go to church even though he wakens on some Sunday mornings and is in the mood for staying home. But he takes himself in hand and disciplines himself on Sundays as he does the other six mornings of the week. And as a result he holds his head higher, his heart sings, and his life takes on a new tone and quality. Dr. Link then goes on to explain that he does this for the reason that through years of giving treatments to people with nervous disorders and disturbances he found himself telling his nervous sufferers to find what they needed in what religion and the church was supplying. Rather indifferent to the church during a number of years, he decided to do what he was telling his patients to do for their benefit.

LACK IS SHOWN

"Many people are saying, 'I can get along very satisfactorily without what your church has to give.' And they think they are doing it. They actually seem to be doing it. And yet the discriminating friends who analyze them frankly detect even in the most likable and capable ones something that is missing, a lack of the spiritual element, a deficiency of Vitamin 'S.' 'Maintain the spiritual glow,' wrote Paul to the Romans.

"There too, the folk who are skeptical of what the church can do for them ask how hymn singing and prayers and sermons each Sunday can do anything to help them grow a soul. There are many to testify that it does, even though it seems miraculous; yet no more miraculous than subjecting our children to spelling and arithmetic and history and other matters, confident that these things will help them grow and develop a mind.

"Jesus found it important to frequent the synagogue. Emerson spoke of having in him at plant called reverence which needed watering at least once a week. The great souls have usually not neglected the adequate supply of Vitamin 'S'—spiritual vision and uplift.

"The church then must set itself to do two things: first, to supply richly for all who come under its influence a supply of the spiritual vitamin, and at the same time to

OUT—
Big Business
Based On Charity

By MILLARD BROWNE

There's one spot in Santa Ana where producers and consumers, rich and poor, all are satisfied. Everybody wins, in fact, at the Goodwill Industries plant and store, 600 West Fourth street.

The whole thing's based on charity, but actually charity begins and ends in the 16,000 Orange county homes where Goodwill men pick up discarded articles. From there on, it's a business proposition.

Hundreds of thousands of articles pass through the two Orange county Goodwill Industries stores (an auxiliary store is located in Anaheim), but the organization is neatly arranged to make itself self-sustaining but strictly non-profit.

About 85 truckloads of discarded clothes, furniture, toys, knick-knacks, magazines, papers and everything else but livestock are brought into the Goodwill plant each month (averaging nearly three a day). Livestock and obvious rubbish are the only things truck-drivers will refuse, though Goodwill doesn't particularly solicit foodstuffs.

Every article in the daily "take" is gone over, most of them cleaned and renovated, some scrapped for their salvage value, and about a half-truck load of unusable stuff is laid aside for the junk pile. Eighty-five per cent of the donations are salvaged.

Key to whether articles are junked or saved is the cost of labor and materials necessary to repair them. "The margin's close, and we have to decide whether the repaired article would be worth enough to pay for labor and parts," explains George Angne, county supervisor of the charitable business organization.

Paradoxically to work in the Goodwill production department (that's the outfit that repairs and renovates articles), you must be technically unemployable. All 35 workers are either disabled or too old to hold jobs in most private industry. The work's diversified enough so that one suffering from nearly any disability except blindness can be employed at one task or another.

Present employees include three infantile paralysis victims, one man who's lost an eye and an arm, another who's lost a hand, two deaf men and many aged persons, three of which are former ministers. One of the three ministers leads special chapel services every morning, since Goodwill is a religious charity organization.

Though all are "unemployable," only one Goodwill worker is on relief. He comes under old age security, earns an allowable $15 a month by doing cabinet work on run-down furniture.

Only renovation work not done at the Goodwill plant is cleaning, which is sent out because of the fire hazard. Laundering, hat-blocking, wood-working, shoe-repairing, small mechanical repairing jobs (radios, clocks, electrical fixtures, etc.), all are part of the production department's work.

stimulate men and women to appreciate its value and to take and assimilate it."

Toughest jobs are in the mending, pricing and inspecting department. Each of the thousands of articles is priced separately, so it will just cover labor and overhead costs. Store prices average about one-fourth of the market price for new articles, but there is wide variation.

One old pair of ladies' boots, once worth about $18, is on sale for $1.75, for instance, while an occasional genuine antique is offered for nearly as much money as it cost originally.

The Goodwill plant runs across quite a number of antiques and other valuables that donors thought were junk, fixes them and puts them in an "unusual department," which caters to wealthier customers. "Genuine antiques are luxuries that poor people can't afford," Angne points out. "So we feel justified in upping the price as high as it would be on any other market. After all, the more we get for such articles, the more money goes into salaries for needy."

Ordinary run of repaired articles is displayed in the sales-room, appeals mostly to poor people, some of whom do all their trading there.

Biggest selling items are men's clothes, and Goodwill can't get enough to satisfy the demand. Particularly this time of year when "floaters" are beginning to flock through Orange county. Socks, mostly rotten and with holes, are sold at two pairs for a nickel, and many customers use them exclusively, wearing them a week or so and throwing them out.

Goodwill is paradise for rummaging bargain hunters and collectors of this and that. Once in a while a costly article will get past the careful scrutiny of store prices, and it's on the chance that they'll find such a bargain that some customers visit the store every day.

One photograph record collector comes in periodically to look over the record stock of more than 2000 different numbers. He always picks up a copy of any "new" one that's brought in. Other collectors peer through a large stock of player piano rolls.

Slowest-moving articles are old-style phonographs, ice boxes, stoves, picture frames. "We're lucky to get $2 for a phonograph that once sold for $300 or $400," Angne complains. Magazines also are poor-sellers, and most of them are baled and shipped away as salvage articles.

Ten tons of grade A magazines (those printed on glossy paper) are sent east to paper mills each month, and between 20 and 25 tons of newspapers and pulp magazines are sold to Japanese importers who process the pulp to make pressed-paper articles.

Worn out kitchen utensils furnish the other major salvage item. Separate receptacles are

W.P.A. READS AND CLIPS IN SILENCE

What is perhaps the quietest WPA unit in Santa Ana is located at the Fuller building on West Fourth street where is situated the magazine reading and clipping unit of the Works Progress administration in Orange county. No one here talks; for reading and talking don't mix.

Six hours each day the men and women here read magazines, clip the factual stories in them and carefully file them away under the Dewey decimal system.

The service is constantly in demand by approximately 30 grammar and high schools in the county and the Santa Ana public library, and since the unit here was opened three months ago, 50,000 magazine articles on more than 550 subjects have been read, classified and filed. Subjects covered range from bed time stories to highly technical discussions.

Large proportion of the work carried on here is done under specific orders of the library and schools in subjects on which they desire information. More than 1000 pictures have been mounted on cardboard for display purposes in visual education.

Several artists in the office are kept busy in making designs for short books for children. Another duty of these men is to paint out certain objectionable features in pictures to be distributed to the schools. A cigarette, for instance, in the hand of a girl in a picture is one item which must be eliminated by the artists.

The project is under the supervision of William Riddiman, a former Wall Street industrial analyst.

At Tustin high school and in the Fullerton bank building are two more units of the same project. The Tustin division specializes in binding into books material clipped from magazines. Another unit is to be opened at Newport Beach Dec. 1.

The service is available only to public institutions and Riddiman says it is the policy of his office to compete in no way with private industry.

installed for aluminum, copper, lead, brass and zinc.

Last year's gross sales of $22,928 paid for rent, utilities, transportation, replacement parts for broken articles and other incidentals, left $15,546 to pay 108 different employees and a $59 balance.

Goodwill makes no "handouts" to "floaters" or tramps who happen through, but occasionally will let one work for a pair of shoes or suit of clothes.

SANTA and the WHITE FOX
by SIGRID ARNEChapter One
THE NEW DOLL

This happened on a cold, white night in the North Land. Snow sifted thick and fine around Toyland and the North Wind banged with his honey knuckles on the toyshop windows.

Santa dozed by the fire and Mrs. Santa sat near him sewing clean, white fur on his big, red coat.

"Santa," she said suddenly, her brown eyes snapping, "wake up or stop smoking that pipe. You'll burn yourself."

Santa opened his eyes and grinned. "Ho, hum," he said as he rose and stretched. "The North Wind had me half asleep. Guess I'll experiment and make a new sort of doll."

"How?" said Mrs. Santa worried. "For goodness sakes, remember the trouble we had when you made that doll with a whistle in her throat and she kept us awake all night."

"Ho, ho," chuckled Santa. "No, this is something else. I've been wanting to make a real doll of the North."

WHISH!

He went to his work bench and tossed aside dolls' shoes and bits of pink silk.

"Ho, Flash," he called to a fairy that was peering curiously at him over her pale blue wings. "Let's see what's in that box the North Star gave me last summer."

The fairy flew to a red cupboard and on the highest shelf she lit on a white ivory box. She touched her hand to it, and wish! it flew through the air to Santa's work bench.

He opened it with a silver key and pulled out silky ermine skins and strings of snowflakes that looked like stars and then a shining piece of blue silk.

"Well, here goes," said Santa. "This is going to be a stormy, little doll, I'm sure."

So he snipped and modeled. Slowly under his hands a pale doll with an oval face, deep blue eyes, and long yellow hair took form. The flowing sleeves of her dress were caught at the wrists with bands of sparkling snowflakes. On her yellow curls Santa placed a tiny, ermine cap and over her dress he hung an ermine cape. She rose from the bench as Santa finished and curtsied.

'CALL ME HELGA'

"So," said Santa, "What have you to say?"

"Could you call me Helga?" asked the doll.

Certainly, but why?" said Santa.

"I don't know. I just seem to hear the name," said the doll.

"Ho, ho," laughed Santa. "That's as good a reason as most. And what would you like to do?"

"Why, a—," said the doll, "I think I'd like to go to sea."

"Sea!" exploded Santa. "Why all little dolls want to be Christ-mas gifts."

"Yes, I know," said Helga. "Somehow, I don't."

"Come, come, that's just a notion," protested Santa. But Mrs. Santa could see he was a little puzzled and worried by the new doll.

Wait till you hear the dreadful notion Helga did get.

NEW TROUBLE
IN SAUSAGE,
SCHOOLSUndug Wells and Unstrung Employees
Among Problems

Undug wells, unlicensed pork sausage, unchanged school district boundaries and unstrung employees...

Such little items, accumulated because last week there was too much explosive material being handed around the courthouse, will plague supervisors tomorrow.

Last week some of the questions were scheduled to be bagged about by the five august gentlemen. But when Supervisor N. E. West barked forth a threat of ouster for three county officials, there wasn't much work done Tuesday.

WORK PILED UP

Tomorrow the work's nicely piled up for the board. It includes:

1. Irate Placentians want their "lost colony" school territory back, and have petitioned the board to change district boundaries. Yorba and part of the Richfield districts were taken away from Placentia last year and put in the Yorba Linda district, which made Placentians mad. The petitions were held up last week because of a technical error, but they may appear tomorrow.

2. Small butcher shops object to a proposed inspection of their pork sausage and corned beef making facilities which would cost about $4 per month under new state regulations. They would like the county to hire the inspector, and so would Supervisor Steele Finley.

Supervisor West contends, however, that the county would be enacting "class legislation" if it acceded. Supervisor John Mitchell's return tomorrow is awaited, because it takes a four-fifths vote to pass items not in the budget.

3. Supervisor Mitchell, expected to return from his vacation tomorrow, ordered postponed action on three water-sinking wells at West street and Chapman avenue. He doesn't approve entirely of their design. Bids already were asked and opened, but were rejected after Mitchell told the board by "remote control" that he wanted to study the plans some more.

MORE CAR MONEY ASKED

4. Irate employees, irked at getting only 3½ cents per mile for use of private cars on county business under the new salary ordinance, may present figures tomorrow to show that "it can't be done." They maintain they will lose money at that rate, which is a one-cent reduction from the old 4½ cent rate. If the board won't do something about it, they say, they may be forced into operating a cooperative service station of their own.

Harvest Ball Draws Many To Ebell

A colorful pageantry of rich fabrics and striking lines of fashion against a background of equally colorful autumn leaves and gilded branches was viewed by each of the 100 couples in attendance at Junior Ebell's annual harvest ball held at the Ebell clubhouse Saturday evening, one of the most successful yet staged.

After the group's gracious welcoming by the general chairman of the affair, Mrs. Hubert Gohres, who wore a striking frock of apricot with burgundy velvet over-jacket and gardenia corsage, and by the Junior Ebell's president, Mrs. Albert Harvey in white crepe with camellias in her blond hair, each couple was greeted by the patrons and patronesses, who included Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miller, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. White, and Col. and Mrs. M. B. Wellington. Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Davis were unable to be present.

Within the colorfully decorated Peacock room, with its sheaves of harvest season leaves and stalks, furnished through the courtesy of Rankin's, was an attractive punch-table, flanked by a picturesque tableau featuring a Puritan family on one side and an Indian group on the other. In general charge was Mrs. John Scripps, in a handsome frock of silver lame with narrow bandings of black velvet ribbon from throat to hem. Mrs. Carleton Smith, wearing Delft blue velvet, was in charge of decorating the ballroom. Mrs. Alvin Stauffer, in black velvet with gardenias in her hair, secured the music, played by Lee Mann's orchestra.

Beautiful Frocks
Among the attractive frocks noted on the dance floor were the flowered peach taffeta worn by Mrs. George Bradley, the draped white chiffon of petite Mrs. Thomas Rhone, the wine velvet of Miss Ruth Baker, and the tangerine crepe with sequin trim worn by Miss Helen Barr of San Diego.

Mrs. Burt Zaiser wore blue crepe with a red sash, Mrs. Clyde Higgins a quantity-styled cinnamon velvet, and Mrs. Paul Howe, beige silk lace. Miss Helen Weissman was in green taffeta with a Roman striped bolero, and Miss Alma Molain wore a copper taffeta with a laced giraffe and sequin cap. Mrs. E. Lee Smith wore garnet velvet with rhinestone buttons and clips, and an embroidered black net was effective on Mrs. Crawford Nalle.

Purple taffeta over white was striking on Miss Betty Smith, as was Mrs. Hans Wahlberg's silver lame with straps of red velvet flowers and pomponed veil atop her head. Mrs. Walter Bacon was in Nile green chiffon with rhinestones and Mrs. Chester Horton's rose beige satin had fox cuffs. Mrs. Thoburn White was in white satin brocade and navy net, and Mrs. Don Plumb's green crepe dress was topped with a wine red ring of net. Mrs. Joe Knox wore brown satin with a square neck and Mrs. Ernest Stump's frock was of navy and white printed satin.

Other beautiful gowns noted were the brocade blue satin of Mrs. Clarence Ranney, the black corded faille silk with white gilet worn by Mrs. Quentin Matzen, the black velvet and sequin frock of Mrs. Russell Sullivan, the white sequined-pleated gown of Mrs. Linus Southwick, the black and white print frock of Mrs. Newell Vandermaast, the black net with velvet flowers worn by Miss Mary Nalle, and the black velvet jacket with flesh chiffon 'kerchief' worn by Miss Gwendolyn Griffin.

Earlier Parties
Among the enjoyable pre-dance parties featured earlier in the evening was a progressive dinner enjoyed by a half-dozen couples. After a delicious first course at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Norton, the group proceeded to the home of Mrs. Thoburn White, Miss Helen Barr of San Diego who was houseguest of the Whites, and Harwood Jones. The capable chairman of the successful affair, Mrs. Hubert Gohres, and Mr. Gohres, received Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Terry, Mr. and Mrs. George Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. John Maxwell. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Harvey received a group of guests in their home on Louise street, with guests including Mr. and Mrs. E. Lee Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ranney, Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Nalle, and Mrs. Alvin Stauffer. Miss Mary Nalle and Ridgeway Poole. Later Mr. and Mrs. Nalle took the group

JEWEL BUTTONS

Jeweled buttons resembling men's shirt studs make smart accents on fall sports frocks. These are ruby red, giving an effective contrast to the pearl gray wool of the dress. Two little flap pockets and a tailored belt are the only other accents.

Book Review of the Week

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of weekly book reviews of current publications which will appear each Monday in The Journal.

A Review of "CITADEL" by A. J. Cronin

(Courtesy Treasure Isle Gift Shop, 506 North Main)

By MOLLY HARVEY
One who reads many books is apt to become as saturated as the gourmet who rejects all but the most unusual dishes. But no literary glutton could pass up "The Citadel" untasted. He will want to consume it to the end and turn into his own blood stream the stirring truths and the challenge it contains.

"The Citadel" is the story of an English doctor and the English medical system the problems it presents are far reaching, and the ethics involved may be extended to embrace any professional man and any professional group. More than just a novel, A. J. Cronin has directed penetrating blasts against a system, and as a former doctor he should know whereof he writes. Some of his exposures are startling and make the reader fervently hope that such conditions do not prevail in our own country. Don't be misled. The book is not a piece of muck-raking sensationalism. It is primarily the story of one doctor, the struggles he had in getting established, his entanglements with hide-bound superiors who had not read a medical journal in twenty years, his battle between his own conscience and the temptation of easy money and worldly success, and his final vindication for which he had to pay the thing that was dearest to him.

Andrew Manson was a raw boned, passionate idealist. Starting life without a penny and an enormous debt to the endowment fund which had made his medical education possible, he took one of the few possible ways to his position, that of assistant to another doctor in the coal mining district of South Wales. Not until he began the actual practice of medicine did he realize how little he knew and how much his fellow practitioners took for granted. Here he had his first experience with the negligence of public health officers and the inertia of city councils. Finally, to stop the epidemic of typhoid which was raging throughout the town he blew up the festering to their home for breakfast, with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Howe and Mrs. Burt Zaiser as additional guests.

Miss Muriel Matzen was hostess to a group of friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Matzen at 2425 Riverside drive, the occasion being a buffet supper after which the party attended the Junior Ebell dance.

Guests present included: Mr. and Mrs. George Winter, Miss Alice Lamb, Miss Helen Weissman, Alfred Loersch, of Santa Ana, Miss Helen Knox of Garden Grove, Herman Schick of Santa Barbara and Mr. Oliver of San Diego.

At the home of the Linus Southwicks were Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Higgins. The Kemper Taylors also entertained a group.

Miss Lindsay Moulton Are Feted With Crystal Reception Hosts

First of a series of pre-nuptial showers complimenting Miss Marjorie Lindsay, who will become the bride of Weston Sprague on Dec. 16, was that given appropriately enough by Mrs. Floyd Blower (Margaret Finley) and Miss Marjorie Hawk on Saturday afternoon. Delightful setting for the affair was Daniger's cafe, where all appointments were in bridal white. Huge bouquets of white chrysanthemums and tall white tapers formed the lovely decorations, and bridge provided the entertainment for the afternoon. Mrs. J. Lasby, mother of the bride-elect, and Miss Gladys Mackie were the fortunate winners of high and second prizes.

Preceding the bridge play, a luncheon was served to the group seated at small tables, with the exception of one large table for the bride party. Seated with that group were Mrs. E. B. Sprague, mother of the groom-to-be, Mrs. Lasby, Miss Gladys Mackie and Miss Eloise Ward of Los Angeles, Miss Kathryn McKinley of Illinois, Miss Lindsay, and the two hostesses.

During the afternoon, a heap of daintily-wrapped gifts, all containing crystal in the bride-elect's chosen. The gifts, which were presented to Miss Lindsay, were Miss Martha Tuthill, Mrs. Thomas Talbert (Medora Smith), Miss Ruth Warner, Miss Janet Diehl, Miss Kathryn Sexton, Miss Helen Crier, Miss Dorothy Dunbar, Mrs. A. J. Lasby, Mrs. E. B. Sprague, Mrs. Robert Wimbush, Mrs. Paul Hales, Mrs. George Bradley, Mrs. John Tessmann, Mrs. Eugene McKinley, Mrs. Harold Harvey, Mrs. Chester Hawk, Mrs. A. G. Finley, Mrs. Frank Hanson, all of Santa Ana.

Out of town guests included Miss Bernice McBride, Miss Kenneth Lindsay, Miss Marian Sharpe, Miss Elizabeth Henry, Miss Mildred Burns, Miss Gladys Mackie, Miss Eloise Ward, Mrs. Los Angeles; Miss Barbara Willson of La Jolla; Miss Anne Anderson and Miss Haydie Bolu of Berkeley; and Miss Kathryn McKinley, a cousin of the honor guest who has just arrived here to attend Miss Lindsay as bridesmaid.

BETROTHAL IS REVEALED ON ANNIVERSARY

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Doris Crofoot, daughter of Mrs. E. H. Crofoot, to a son of the late Mr. Crofoot, was made at a Thanksgiving dinner party at the home of J. L. Lamp, grandfather of the bride-to-be. The dinner also celebrated the 80th birthday of Mr. Lamp.

After the turkey dinner was served on a table beautifully decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and yellow tapers, a birthday cake with yellow candles was cut by the birthday celebrant. Individual "bouquets" made of mints in cellophane held the announcement of the engagement. A note sealed with a tiny wedding bell. It read, "Doris and Dean, December."

Guests were Dean Krebs, Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Krebs, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Lanford, Miss Sally Lanford, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bennett, all of Downey; Mrs. Percy Wright, Renton, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Opsahl, Alhambra; Miss Marion Nelson, Newport Heights; Everett Lamp, J. F. Lamp, Mrs. E. H. Crofoot, Miss Doris Crofoot, and Leonard Crofoot. Afternoon callers were Mrs. William Passer and son William, Redlands.

OKLAHOMAN WEDS MARGARET FORBES

A wedding of two childhood sweethearts occurred late yesterday when Miss Margaret Forbes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Forbes, and Lindon Phillips of Wirt, Okla., were married in the First Methodist chapel by the Rev. H. I. Rasmus, Jr.

The bride wore a smart suit of navy with caracul trim, and a corsage of gardenias. Her sole ornament was an antique gold locket. Her maid of honor was Miss Maxine Struck, wearing black satin with a corsage of red roses.

Adding to the impressiveness of the ceremony, during which Mr. Phillips was attended by Raymond Born, was music played by Mrs. Ralph Gordon.

After their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips will be at home at 304 Orange avenue. He is employed at Guard's Pharmacy on South Main street, and attended school at Dundee and Murray State college. The bride was graduated from Healdton, Okla., schools.

At attendance at the quiet ceremony were the Messrs. E. Magill, Jr., C. E. Guard, C. D. Forbes, Omar Briner, Voris Robinson, D. M. Forbes, Mrs. L. Taylor, Mrs. J. N. Musick of Kansas, R. A. Robinson, and Douglas Forbes, and the bride party.

PARENTS VISIT AT OGLE HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Ogle have as house guests at their home, 1603 French street, the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Teasley of Denver, Colorado. Mr. and Mrs. Teasley will be here for two weeks, and a particularly happy event of their visit is seeing their young grandson, Denny Ogle, for the first time.

When a liquid diet is called for: Clear soups, strained fruit juices, milk, sherberts, plain gelatin mixtures, eggnog. Serve them in small amounts every two hours.

Mary Hampton's Column

Hurrah-hurrah! If Lelong does it, we can be sure the style is good for us too. You can see I have been steeping in news from Paris about this mid-season opening—culling the bits we ourselves may want to use. For everything that happens percolates through soon enough to make it safe to start adopting now—if we want to!

It is the light coat over the dark dress that is such good news! Lelong, of course, designed all this with a commercial eye on far-away spring for that is the way it goes. Everything must be done way ahead of time. Only we in California, where it is always spring, can try out the good ideas any time we feel like it.

So news of a red coat—a candy striped blue and white coat—a powder blue coat, etc., is inspiration for us. It means, too, we can indulge in a dark frock for cold days beneath coat or fur coat when we are in our most thorough mid-winter mood. And then a trick light coat, glowing with color, for the inevitable day of warm sunshine which always punctuates the winter! Why, some of us have such coats hanging around right now!

And if—(let me whisper it) you have a suppressed desire for one which has not gotten around to being fulfilled yet—the betting is with you now, and it is a safe investment for the sunny days ahead.

Well, hectic mothers, something, at last is going to be done about

BREAKFAST IS ENJOYED BY CHURCH GROUPS

One of the happiest events of the year for the girls of the United Brethren church is the annual Thanksgiving breakfast which was held in the church parlors Thursday morning. When under the auspices of the Otterbein Guild and World Friendship Circle, the two girls' missionary groups in the church.

Tables were gay with Thanksgiving colors and decorations with a centerpiece of large holly leaves and berries. Beryl Bates, Marjorie Johnson and Dorothy Gammell.

Following a delicious breakfast prepared and served by the Mesdames William Hart, C. E. Yount and Esther Wiley, Mrs. E. E. Bates, president of the O. G. introduced the following guests of honor: Mrs. H. Sands, president of the Woman's Missionary society, Mrs. Royal Gammell, Mrs. Keith Noble and Mrs. Othel Johnson, past presidents of the O. G., Mrs. Percy Gammell and Mrs. J. H. Noble, past patronesses of the O. G., Mrs. Maud Hackett, present patroness, Mrs. R. L. Hager, patroness of the W. F. C. and Miss Roberta Emmerson, president of the W. F. C. and Mrs. E. E. Johnson, wife of the local pastor.

A short musical program consisted of a vocal duet by Marjorie Fryatt and Carolyn Hager, two vocal trios by the Mesdames Helen Whitley, Gertrude Yount and Marjorie Johnson, and an accordion solo by Carolyn Hager.

A thank-offering to the missionary cause was effectively rendered in a pretty candle-light service under the leadership of Miss Dorothy Gammell, assisted by Misses Helen Whitley and Marjorie Johnson singing the hymns of praise and consecration.

Guests at the breakfast beside the honor guests included the Mesdames Beryl Bates, Gertrude Yount, Mildred McCullough, Eleanor McCullough, Lucille Roberts, Wilma Hart, Helen Whitley, Marjorie Johnson, Dorothy Gammell, Evangeline Fryatt, Alta Wauhat, Marjorie Fryatt, Lois Brower, Martha Bruce, Roberta Emmerson, Alpha Donna VanNatta, Rita Mae VanNatta, Doris June Mustard, Carolyn Hager and Virginia Wauhat.

TWO COUSINS ARE HONORED

Mrs. Frank B. Browning is entertaining Mrs. Browning's cousin, Mrs. George Baird of Fairmont, Ill. and Mrs. Fannie B. Wragg of Jerome, Idaho.

They are cousins of Dr. Mary E. Wright also, so Mrs. Browning had dinner for all the family honoring the visitors on Sunday.

Inch squares of peeled apples placed on wooden picks are tasty, crisp additions for the appetizer tray.

Gay-decked booths selling typical carnival food, and offering games of skill or chance articles, will be located throughout the hall. Card games, with lovely prizes, will be in play during the evening also.

Arrangements for the entire affair are being supervised by Mrs. E. R. Lepper, ways and means chairman. Her committee, composed of Mrs. Earl M. Waycott, Mrs. L. G. Holman, Mrs. Rena Rorchard, Mrs. E. A. Elwell, Mrs. Arthur Eklund, Mrs. Hal Noel, Mrs. H. M. Kinslow, Mrs. E. D. Froeschel, Mrs. I. W. Breese, Mrs. Herbert Johnson, Mrs. J. F. Jacoby and Mrs. R. N. Wimbush.

TWO NATAL DAYS CELEBRATED ON HOLIDAY

A lovely Thanksgiving dinner was enjoyed in the outdoor patio of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest M. Fox, 1002 West Camille street, last week, when two birthday anniversaries called for additional celebration, those of the host's mother, Mrs. Cora L. Fox, and of himself.

Those grouped in the attractive patio, with its decorations of begonias and chrysanthemums were Mrs. Cora L. Fox, Miss Marguerite Fox, Mrs. Ella Faupel, Miss Doris Lorraine Faupel, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Dutton, Bob and Ruth Dutton, Miss Katherine Swiler of Philadelphia, Wilbur L. Cassidy of Orange, and the host and hostess.

Luncheon Is Third Of Series

Once again this month extending the hospitality of her charming home to a group of friends, Mrs. A. N. Zerman gave the third of a series of autumn parties Saturday afternoon.

Her living rooms were beautiful with rose and yellow chrysanthemums set her by Mrs. Margaret Church and Mrs. Charles Aubrey, as well as with clusters of vivid Christmas holly sent by Mrs. Alvin Nowotny.

Small luncheon tables were centered with bubble bowls holding silver and gold fish with a floating hibiscus blossom on the water's surface.

Assisting in hostess duties were Mrs. Cyrus H. Lurker, Mrs. J. B. Haas, Mrs. Alvin Nowotny, Mrs. Asa Hoffman, and the hostess' granddaughters, Miss Helen and Miss Archela Winter.

Decorative towels were awarded as prizes at the conclusion of the afternoon's activities. Mrs. Mae Farrar, Mrs. D. M. Terhune, and Mrs. E. F. Museus.

Guests included Mrs. Charles Artz, Mrs. C. Arnold, Mrs. Bertha Berry, Mrs. Mollie Ballard, Mrs. Margaret Church, Mrs. Mae Farrar, Mrs. C. B. Hill, Mrs. J. B. Haas, Mrs. Roy Ivins, Mrs. Anna James, Mrs. Vera Jacoby, Mrs. E. F. Gauseus, Mrs. Asa Hoffman, Mrs. Frank Hoffman, Mrs. Cyrus Lurker, Mrs. E. F. Perkins, Mrs. H. D. McIlvinn, Mrs. Alvin Nowotny, Mrs. Edith Snow, and Mrs. D. M. Terhune.

Poets' Corner

California's Verse Reprints With Comments By MINA SHAFFER

Although such well-known writers as Hamlin Garland and Joseph Auslander were among the judges for the "Browning Poetry Contest" I do not agree with them in their choice.

This poem by Clifford Gessler is worthy of a better position than third for which he received $25.

It was my privilege to see several of the entries, which I think, had better content than the prize winning one, which in my estimation sounds like an occasional poem such as are being written for birthdays, Christmas and Thanksgiving.

THE NAVAL OF GOD

Days sailing, and the valleyed sea About us, the same yet always changing face . . .

Days in the sun, and the humped backs Of porpoises rolling ahead and the dark banners

Of shark fins . . . And the deep spangled nights Cool with the wind, the flying fish blind with our lights

Lured thudding against the deck . . . And at the wheel Two hands and one bare foot gripping the spokes,

Swinging the tall sharp prow against the push Of obstinate waves, holding her hard and true

Where the Southern Cross blooms like a stalked flower And the clouds sculpture a long-beaked ancient god

Swallowing the oval moon . . . And all these days no sail, nor any land:

Only the wide uplilt plain of sea To the dark edge of the sky. This is the Naval of God, where the sacred star-paths cross

And the ocean streams curl back, and the winds halt.

Reach back into memory older than ships Like this; call out the sailing-directions

Learned of the gods! Here is the great divide Where the Titan's Fishhook sinks in the north, behind,

And the keel pivots on, furrowing straight south To the White Stars that Spring from the World's Root.

Only the sea-birds know this place, and the spirits Of sailing gods, ancestral voyagers Who followed those birds to the sun-drenched anchor islands

And built there the foundations of the land.

OUTLAW'S PARADISE . . .
Strange as it seems, the "Oklahoma Panhandle," an area of 5950 square miles, from 1845 to 1890 was unclaimed, unwanted and without governmental control of any kind whatever!

possession in North America, a section of the Republic of Mexico and the northern most tip of the Republic of Texas.

that no land north of the "36 and 30" line should enter the Union as a slave-holding state. Inasmuch as Texas favored slavery, the strip of land was abandoned by Texas, unclaimed by the Federal Government, and until 1890, when it was annexed to the Oklahoma Territory, was literally a "No Man's Land" in the center of the United States!

The woman, slightly behind him, wears a polka-dot dress and a hat, holding a handbag. They are running towards the right, with a car visible in the background. The scene is filled with rain and wind, indicated by diagonal lines and clouds. The illustration is signed 'J. H. 1933' in the bottom left corner.

RICHEST MAN In The World

He owns six beautiful palaces in Hyderabad, a fleet of 50 limousines, yet he travels about in an old touring car of 1927 model. He collects the bulk of his income from the sale of his works of public welfare, child health centers, and gold room business of his native state. He reaches his official duties with the same speed and efficiency as he wears the simplest attire. On state occasions, however, he stages vast Oriental splendor. The seal of the Nizam is shown on the current stamp of Hyderabad.

SALUTE OF 21 guns greeted the succession of Ali Khan, the Nizam of Hyderabad, in 1911. This began one of the strangest reigns in the history of the richest man in the world. Picturesque, a character who might have stepped out of the pages of a story, he was 14,000,000 subjects from his sultry, showy palace in the city of Hyderabad, capital of this central India province. His estimated at more than $600,000,000, he is virtually a prisoner in his own land. Ancient customs decree that he actually he never leaves the capital city, even during the terrib summer.

FRAGMENTS OF MAN'S EARLY HISTORY

THE foregoing articles on the subject of the Folsom men being known only by a few scattered dart points seen in a measure, to illustrate how much science can tell about prehistoric people with only the most meager data upon which to build.

A noteworthy example of deduction is contained in the report of Dr. J. H. Steward, of the Smithsonian Institute, who has been excavating floors of caves in the Salt Lake region of Utah.

In this region, where vestiges of early man can be traced back as much as fifteen thousand years, more than two hundred meager remains were found. Four-fifths of them had been patched and repaired. This one item alone would lead to show this particular race of people as very frugal and economical.
